ITALIANS ADVANCE UNCHECKED

NO RESISTANCE AT HAUSIEN

NATIVES WELCOME INVADERS

WOMEN AND PRIESTS SUBMISSIVE

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, Received, Nov. 3, 8.15 a.m.)

With the Italian Army on the Northern Front, (via Asmara), Nov. 3.

The Italian Army's first wave reached all its objectives in the general advance to-day. Thus the legions of Rome added another slice of Ethiopian territory to the area under the occupation.

The troops occupied Hausien at noon. A native army corps entered the town, having met with no resistance whatever.

Hausien is an important caravan centre about 50 kilometres from Makale. It was the goal of the Birolis in the first day's drive.

The local native chieftains formally surrendered to the Italians and then immediately fed them.—
United Press.

INVADERS WELCOMED

Asmara, Nov. 3.
The main body of Birolis and Askaris, leading the advance of the Northern Army, occupied the town of Endaebnmas to-day.

The place commands a fertile and well-watered series of valleys. The women welcomed the invaders and large herds of cattle were brought from concealment. The troops bought many heads.

General Santini's Blackshirts are expected to enter Hausien tomorrow. They are at present holding a line from the Monastery de Branson on English Street to the Monastery Ambition on the road from Adigrat to Hausien.

The Italians are welcomed in the captured villages by a pealing of bells of stone, deputations of monks with gifts of sweetmeats, incense, chickens and eggs. The natives are all submissive.—

Russia's Vast Gold Hoard

EVEN ARCTIC YIELDS UP WEALTH

Moscow, Nov. 3.
Last year the Russian gold output exceeded that of the United States and Canada combined.

By 1940 it will reach the record figure of £80,000,000 per annum.

Russia needs gold to purchase goods from abroad which she urgently requires to ensure success of her second five year plan. She is obtaining it by intensified research. Numerous new gold bearing reefs have been discovered in the Caucasus, Kazan and even in the Arctic, where prospecting is done on a scientific scale unheard of in other parts of the world.—

BERENGARIA TO BE RETIRED

London, Nov. 3.
The Cunard-White Star Line announces that the £2,100-ton Atlantic liner Berengaria, formerly the Hamburg-American liner, Imperator, will be retired from service when the Queen Mary begins her sailings on May 27 next.—

LABOURING FOR PEACE OF WORLD

MINISTER'S REVIEW

London, Nov. 3.
The Foreign Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, and the Minister for League Affairs, Mr. Eden, both returned to London to-day after yesterday's meeting of the Co-ordination Committee of the fifty-two League States which has appointed November 18 as the date for concerted application of the proposed economic sanctions against Italy.

In a speech broadcast to British listeners before he left Geneva last night, Sir Samuel said: "Today has been a very important day in the history of the League." The meeting of the Co-ordination Committee had given a clear and satisfactory answer to the doubts which had arisen in some minds whether collective action might be smothered under a mass of technical details and special reservations. It was a great achievement that 50 League States had promised support to the League action, and he congratulated them.

"The result has been due neither to British pressure nor to Franco-British pressure, but to a common effort of many States, great and small, representing many different interests. Secondly, the League has given its blessing to the efforts that we and the French Government are making for peace. Speech after speech was made this afternoon wishing these efforts every success."

ONLY ONE OBJECT

"There was no question that we were going behind the back of the Council. It was clear that every member had one object only in mind—to bring to an end at the earliest possible moment to the horrors of war and to help on a settlement acceptable to the three parties to the controversy. The

SPENDING MILLIONS ON ROADS

BRITAIN'S GREAT PROGRAMME

CHAMBERLAIN OPTIMISTIC

London, Nov. 3.
The fact that the Government intends to embark on a five-year plan of road improvement costing hundreds of millions sterling was disclosed by Mr. Neville Chamberlain, during a broadcast last night.

Mr. Chamberlain also revealed that unemployment had decreased in Britain by 40,000 during the month of October, bringing the total workless in the United Kingdom substantially below the million mark for the first time this decade.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer promised that every precaution would be taken to prevent waste and extravagance in carrying out Britain's new defence programme, which will cost many millions above last year's figure. He launched a virulent attack on Mr. Lloyd George's "New Deal", and said that last year the record number of 348,000 new houses had been built in Britain. "Thanks to the general improvement in the national finances we can now go ahead without decreasing expenditure on road-planning," he said.

GOVERNMENT DEFENDED

London, Nov. 3.
Mr. Neville Chamberlain, in a broadcast election address on behalf of the National Government last night, replied in detail to the charges of Mr. Lloyd George in the previous speech of the series, and went on to announce a Government five-year programme of road improvement to cost one hundred million pounds.

CANADA WELCOMES GOVERNOR

LORD TWEEDSMUIR AT QUEBEC

MET BY PRIME MINISTER

Quebec, Nov. 3.
Large crowds watched the arrival of the liner Duchess of Richmond, with the new Governor-General, Lord Tweedsmuir, aboard.

NO GOVERNMENT STATEMENT

Colonial Secretary's Explanation

A United Press message from Shanghai this morning stated that rumours were prevailing there that a currency announcement by the Hongkong Government was impending.

Asked whether this was correct, the acting Colonial Secretary (Hon. Mr. D. W. Trautman) stated that the Government had been watching the situation most carefully for many weeks, and was still doing so. Beyond that, said Mr. Trautman, he could make no pronouncement whatever on the subject.

Lord Tweedsmuir, who inspected a guard of honour drawn from a crack French-Canadian regiment, after which he drove to the historic Legislative Council chamber.

EXCHANGE CHAOS IN CIRCLES

BANKS TO DECIDE POLICY?

SILVER DOLLARS SCARCE

In consequence of China's currency decision the exchange market in Hongkong was completely demoralised this morning. The official rate of the dollar was announced to be 1s. 8 1/2d. (nominal), a drop of a penny on Saturday's quotation.

No rates could be quoted in the business market, as it was impossible to fix quotations in the circumstances prevailing. The Hongkong and Shanghai Bank was neither buying nor selling.

SHANGHAI UNCERTAINTY

Shanghai, Nov. 4.
There are indications at present that the Central Bank will maintain exchange rates at around Saturday's quotation for November 7/8 or 30.

Well informed circles express the belief that the Bank will be well able to buy and sell unlimited quantities of exchange or they would not have made the announcement.

FOREIGN BANKS MAY FIGHT

UNWILLING TO HAND OVER SILVER

EMBARGO ON EXPORTS MAY BE ENFORCED

Shanghai, Nov. 3.

While some foreign banks are prepared to turn over their silver resources to the Chinese Government, following the nationalisation of the metal, this decision is by no means unanimous. Many banks feel they are entitled to secure London silver prices for their holdings.

The opinion prevails that outstanding contracts in exchange can be taken at the rates previously arranged, but the bank depositors have to accept notes in future instead of silver dollars.

An interesting point is what will happen to the note issues of the foreign banks, for which full silver reserves are held locally.

DRAMATIC LAWSUIT CONCLUDES

MURDER TRIAL RECALLED

Raleigh, N. Carolina, Nov. 2.
The last curtain fell to-day on a drama that started in Hongkong over two years ago.

The central figures were C. Smith Reynolds, multi-millionaire tobacco magnate who was mysteriously slain last year, his wife, Libby Holmes, a famous "torch" singer, and their two-year-old son.

Reynolds, on an air-hunting expedition to French Indo-China in 1933, crashed at Kiphong and, abandoning his plans, came to Hongkong, where he was met by his wife.

A week after their return to the United States, Reynolds was murdered under mysterious circumstances.

His wife was arrested but, after a sensational court trial, was acquitted on a charge of murder.

An embargo on the export of silver is believed likely if foreign bankers and others do not agree to abide by the Government's decision regarding the nationalisation of silver.

The terms of the Government's decree include the following: "Payment of all taxes and discharge of all public and private obligations shall be effected by legal tender notes."

"The using of silver dollars or bullion for currency purposes will be prohibited and any contravention of this provision will be punishable by confiscation of the whole amount of silver seized."

"Any individual found in the illegal possession of silver shall be punished in accordance with the law governing acts of treason against the nation."

"A Currency Reserve Board created under a special ordinance shall be formed to control the issue and the retirement of legal tender banknotes and keep custody of the reserve against outstanding banknotes."— Reuter.

EXPERT COMMENT

Washington, Nov. 3.
Although declining to make any formal comment, members of the Government indicated that they regarded China's new currency measures as timely, designed simultaneously to strengthen the Central Government and to stabilise currency against fluctuations which have tormented banks and commercial men for many months.

The programme is briefly described expertly, as an enlargement of a managed currency, the basis on which China has operated for some time past.

Numerous experts regard the step as a resourceful measure of a kind which it has long been recognised China needs, in face of the failure of international monetary powers to concur in methods to remedy China's monetary troubles. Official sources said the United States Treasury was not involved in the step and as far as is known other Governments are not involved, although unofficial experts believe the British economist, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, was probably consulted before this latest step was taken by Nanking.

The nationalisation order is regarded as a gigantic measure, the full success of which is dependent upon the methods the Government employs in execution. Absence of details causes experts to reserve judgment.

STRENGTHENING NANKING

It is widely felt, however, that unification of the note issue will greatly strengthen the Central Government. It is believed that public faith in the note issue will be strengthened as a result of the combining of the resources of the banks.

It is felt that the recent success of the Central Government in dis-

TRAVELLED FROM S'HAH TO LONDON—A PRISONER

TO GO TO PRISON

10,000 MILES TO GO TO GAOL

ENGLISH WOMAN'S LAST VOYAGE

A WOMAN who has travelled 10,000 miles to begin a sentence of life imprisonment has reached England.

She is Mrs. Katherine Hadley, sentenced to death at Shanghai in 1933 for the murder of Captain Walter Clifford Youngs, former British mercantile marine officer.

Mrs. Hadley was recommended to mercy, and was granted a reprieve on December 12, 1933.

The sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life.

She travelled in the P. and O. liner Naldora, and was in charge of two police officers and a nurse.

On arrival in London she was taken to Holloway prison, where she began her imprisonment in England.

It is only on rare occasions that a prisoner is removed from an overseas territory to this country.

"These transfers are made under the Colonial Prisoners Removal Act of 1884," an official said.

"They involve the issuing of a warrant by the Home Secretary, and the question of removal is usually raised by the Governor of the Colony concerned."

Mrs. Hadley is a Lithuanian by birth, and about 36 years of age. She married an Englishman who committed suicide in 1919, when she was just 20 years old.

She was tried before the British Supreme Court at Shanghai, and displayed no sign of emotion when sentence of death was passed upon her.

A neighbour, at the trial, described how he watched through a window and saw Mrs. Hadley stab Captain Youngs.

A police sergeant stated that while he was guarding Mrs. Hadley at the hospital, she exclaimed: "Did I kill him? If not I'll kill him 10 times over."

NO AIR POCKETS CAUSED THIS!

New York, Oct. 28.

C. R. Smith, President of the American Airlines, has discovered why planes on the Cincinnati-Chicago route dip down over Rosclawn, Indiana. As a result an order has been issued against the practice.

Smith, it developed, was a passenger on a plane recently and noted sudden descent as well as the eager scrutiny applied to the earth by other passengers. One man even had field glasses.

Later Smith summoned Joe Westover, the pilot, and asked an explanation. "Nudist camp," said Westover.—United Press.

Mrs. Katherine Hadley escorted by a warden on her arrival at Holloway prison, where she began a sentence of life imprisonment in England. In 1933 she was sentenced to death at Shanghai for the murder of Captain Walter Clifford Youngs, a former British mercantile marine officer. A recommendation to mercy accompanied the sentence, which was afterwards commuted to penal servitude for life.

Six Stars Captured For British Films

Stuart Robertson and John Gielgud in New Productions

SIX new stars have been found for British films. Three are coming from Hollywood and three have been found in London. They are:

John Gielgud,
Stuart Robertson,
Jean Muir,

Oscar Homolka, Peter Lorre, and Robert Young.

John Gielgud, who is one of the finest character actors on the London stage, and who has refused more film offers from Hollywood than any other actor in the past year, has agreed to play the part of Somerset Maugham's famous character, Ashenden, in a film to be called "The Secret Agent."

He appeared in the stage and film versions of "The Good Companions," and is the brother of Mr. Val Gielgud, the B.B.C. drama director.

The American film star, Robert Young, who played in "The House of Rothschild," and the German film star, Peter Lorre, who played the villain in "M" and "The Man Who Knew Too Much," are both being brought from Hollywood for "The Secret Agent," in which the heroine will be Madeline Carroll. It will be directed by Alfred Hitchcock for Gaumont-British.

Jean Muir, who played Helena in the film of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," will star in a musical film, to be directed by Paul Stein, of "Blossom Time," for Warner's at Teddington, Middlesex. She is a Scots girl at present in Hollywood.

Stuart Robertson, the Scottish singer, brother of Anna Neagle, the film star, has been placed under exclusive contract by British and Dominions and will first be starred in a sea story in which he will sing arias. He has frequently broadcast and has sung at Queen's Hall.

Oscar Homolka, who is now playing in "Close Quarters" at the Savoy, and who has taken the part of Oom Paul Kruger in the film "Cecil Rhodes," has been placed under long contract by Gaumont-British and will be starred in a series of films. He is an Australian.

Gaumont-British will produce 23 films during the next 12 months:

Two starring Will Hay.
Two with Jessie Matthews.
Two with Jack Hulbert and Cicely Courtneidge.

Negotiations now under way make it likely that George Arliss, who is to play the part of the benign and whimsical detective created by the late Edgar Wallace in "The Mind of Mr. Reader," will be seen in two further British films.

Two outstanding films in the Gaumont-British programme will be a talking-picture version of the famous silent film "Michael Strogoff: Courier of the Czar" and an Empire drama of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

For the title part in "Michael Strogoff" the names of Robert Donat and Fredric March have been mentioned, but nothing is likely to be settled until after Michael Balcon, director of productions for Gaumont-British, goes to Hollywood in November. Mr. Balcon will take with him 12 completed scenarios, and will try to find more famous American stars for British films.

I Was Worried SICK

Thought Something Terrible
Was Wrong With My Baby

Natural Way Doctors Advise Makes Baby Hungry for Food
—Restores Health Naturally

No longer need you fear that something terrible is wrong when your child is fretful, listless or won't eat. Simply do this at once:

Give your baby a little Castoria and see how quickly improvement comes. Authorities have found that intestinal absorption may be poisoning the system even when the child's habits may seem regular. The stomach is upset. Digestion is impaired. Nerves lose their delicate balance.

Nothing corrects this distressing condition quite as naturally and safely as Castoria. Swiftly it cleanses the system, settles the stomach, improves digestion and restores nerve-poise. Then Nature does the rest as only Nature can. Appetite for food returns. Health is again normal. As a result baby gains weight fast.

Now don't worry, mother. At the first warning that all is not well give your child a little Castoria. Results will surprise you.

GANGSTER MENACE

LADY'S FANT ENTERED

An outrageous attempt at robbery with violence took place early yesterday morning at 30, Nathan Road. Two men, one armed with a knife, gained entrance to the residence on the first floor of Miss Consuelo Rivera, by a ruse and attacked her and her maid. Fortunately, the amah managed to escape and raise the alarm, frightening the intruders, who thereupon left the apartment and made off.

Miss Rivera was in her bedroom at about 7.15 a.m. preparing to go to church when the door bell rang and her amah brought in a letter, saying that two men were waiting outside. The name was indecipherable, though the address of the building could be read, so she told the amah to return it to the bearer. However, the men insisted that the letter was for her, and the amah came back, followed by the men, one of whom was carrying a paint pot. They said that they had come to whitewash the place.

Miss Rivera opened the letter and saw that it had the appearance of an official one, probably from the Sanitary Department, and that it was not intended for her. Again the letter was handed back and the men were told that there must have been a mistake. When Miss Rivera tried to close the door of her room they pushed it open and forced their way in. One of them seized her, and throwing her into the bed, held her down. She struggled desperately and the robber took a meat knife from his belt and cut her left hand, fortunately not seriously and almost tore an earring off her ear.

Meanwhile the other robber was grappling with the amah on the floor, and she, in a frenzy of terror managed to break away and escape from the room, closely followed by the man. The noise she made frightened the other robber who released Miss Rivera and fled.

Outside the apartment, on the landing, the two ruffians conferred for a moment and then made off in an unknown direction. Nothing was stolen, but the meat knife, the pail, a felt hat and a toy water pistol were left behind by the assailants.

H. K. A "CHATTEL"?

LABOUR'S
UNIQUE
OVER TO LEAGUE

MR. MALCOLM MacDONALD, Secretary for the Colonies, deprecated in strong terms the suggestion that Hongkong and other Colonies should be handed over to the League of Nations as Mandates, when he spoke at a luncheon of the West African Dinner Club last month in honour of Sir Bernard Bourdillon, Governor-designate of Nigeria.

"A certain eminent person, at one of the recent Party conferences," he remarked, "said that, in his view, all the Crown Colonies should be handed over to the League of Nations as Mandates."

"It is not merely the economic development that is prejudiced, but also the political and educational development of the peoples there, and the expansion of medical and other social services, for all these services are expensive, and must be founded on a basis of material prosperity."

Content To Stay

"To talk of the Crown Colonies being handed over wholesale as Mandates to the League," the Colonial Secretary continued, "is to presume that the peoples of the Colonies can be treated as mere chattels, that we need not consult their own wishes."

"But we are bound to consult their wishes, and I have no doubt that, if we were to do so, we should find the vast majority of them content and anxious to stay in their present situation."

"To say that implies no criticism of the Mandate System. In fact, the sentiment of the people in the Colonies is due to our having for a long time past in our Colonial Government practised the very principles laid down by the League of Nations for the government of Mandated territories."

"We have acted primarily as trustees for the welfare and happiness of the peoples in the Colonies, and they have a lively appreciation of the many benefits which they have received under the British Crown."

Taxpayers'
Paradise
In PacificNO RATES: NO POOR
NO ILLITERATES

A picturesque Pacific Island where

There is no income tax
Nobody is without property
There are no poor
Nobody is illiterate

There is a simplified smooth-functioning legislature actually exists. And it is not an experimental Utopia in its first practical stage.

It is the island of Tonga, and its Crown Prince Taufa Ahau who is visiting Melbourne for the Methodist Church centenary, has been telling Austral News about it.

Every boy on attaining the age of 16 is given a grant of 8½ acres of land and a village home; in other words the means to make a living among his 80,000 fellow islanders.

In place of income tax, a payment of £2 a year is levied on every male adult, and this entitles him to free medical, dental and hospital treatment for himself and his family. To augment the revenue, there are customs duties and a tax on motor cars. There are free primary schools and two colleges.

Prince Taufa Ahau, not yet 18, is more than six feet tall, and has already won distinction as a hurdler, weight putter and Rugby footballer. He is studying law.

MADCAP ADVENTURE
AROUND THE WORLD
IN 25-FOOT SHIPMOTHER WILL ACCOMPANY U. S.
STUDENT TO HONGKONG

San Francisco, Oct. 20.

Undaunted by buffeting winds and failing equipment Mrs. Wilma Madden, 36, and her stepson, Ward, 21, plan to continue a "mad adventure" cruise around the world in a 25-foot sailing sloop.

They were scheduled to leave early in November for Los Angeles on the second leg of a tour they hope will take them to South America, Africa, Europe, the South Seas, Hongkong and China.

The trip is designed in part to furnish "background" for Ward, who has ambitions to be an author.

Filming A Battle With Microbes As Rival Armies

Paris, Oct. 20.

Films that might be announced in the most startling terms on the hoardings are described by Paris-Soir:

"Five million actors. Three hundred stars. The most remarkable reconstruction of a great battle ever seen on the screen. Real fighting, with blood and victims," are only some of the claims for them that might be made.

The warriors are red and white blood corpuscles, and the battles are fought against microbes.

The films are staged by Dr. Comandon in a laboratory at the house at Garches where Pasteur died. The "stars" often have to undergo a certain make-up to make them catch the camera.

"And although I sign no princely contracts, my stars are dear, very dear," Dr. Comandon explained, bringing his different cultures within the glare of the spotlight.

25 Years' Work

And then he shot a film. Bacilli of foot-and-mouth disease prepared an underhand attack on innocent red globules, and an army of white globules.

As in every good film, the forces of law and order triumphed, the bacilli beat a retreat, and the white globules, advancing in serried lines, surrounded them, and finally dealt the deathblow.

It has taken Dr. Comandon 25 years to bring his work to such perfection.

The "field of battle" in the film was only half a cubic millimetre of blood, which had to be enlarged ten thousand times.

Dr. Comandon is now undertaking a series of studies on the evolution of cancerous cells, which are so remarkable that Dr. Carrel has asked him to go to New York to collaborate with him at the Rockefeller Institute. —Reuter.

ANTI-NANKING REVOLT

AUTONOMY MOVE IN N. CHINAREBELS STILL SEEK A STRONG MAN

Tientsin, Nov. 1.

The movement for an autonomous North China government is being hampered by lack of a Chinese leader with enough ability and prestige to hold the many conflicting elements together without plunging five northern provinces into a maelstrom of civil war and unrest.

Japanese take it for granted that the Big Five Chinese generals in North China will join the revolt against Nanking but they also know that the Big Five—Yen Hsi-shan, Sung Chieh-yuan, Fu Tao-yl, Chin Teh-chun and Shang Chen—could never work harmoniously together and that it is imperative to have some "strong man", more than a mere figurehead, to keep them from tearing at each other's throats once they are free from Nanking's nominal control.

In this group are two leaders stronger than the others, General Yen Hsi-shan, Pacification Commander of Shanai Province, who controls Fu Tao-yl, governor of Suiyuan Province; and General Sung Chieh-yuan, who controls Chin Teh-chun, governor of Chahar. General Shang Chen, governor of Hebei, is something of a weak sister. General Han Fu-chu, governor of Shantung, is a powerful leader, but is something of a question mark to the Japanese as he is satisfied with Nanking as long as Nanking leaves him alone. The Japanese nevertheless figure that Shantung will be with Chahar, Hebei, Shanai and Suiyuan provinces when the break comes against Nanking.

Not Committed

According to one member of the old Chihli Clique which ruled North China before Chiang Kai-shek's rise to power and glory and who claims to have been present when these matters were discussed between Japanese and Chinese leaders, nothing has been yet definitely decided.

The Japanese have not yet committed themselves to the North China separatist movement and will be content with Nanking's nominal control if Nanking grants Japan's wishes, which are virtual demands.

These include Japanese exploitation of mines and communications, purchase of property, reduction of tariffs on Japanese imports, recognition of Manchukuo and Japanese aid in fighting Communists on the frontiers.

If these demands are not granted, then Japan will not only support but foster independence in North China and see that the new government will have what the Japanese love to call "sincerity" in their attitude of friendship towards Japan.

Japanese are not unanimous in their views on the issue, and there is some bickering and dispute among their own ranks. One group believes Japan can obtain what she wants eventually, without riding a tiger. Another group, which seems to be in the majority, demands action and a new state. Older and wiser heads counsel patience until all preliminary problems to the establishment of a new state can be worked out.

This informant said his observations of the trend and the present status of affairs leads him to the conclusion that it is only a matter of time until independence is declared and achieved. —United Press.

BELGIANS BEAT

Munich, Oct. 20.

The Englishman, the Australian and the German stand at the bottom of the class when it comes to drinking alcohol, according to Nazi statistics.

The list shows that the Frenchman and the Swiss drink on the average, five times more every year than any one of them.

Here are the figures per head per year in litres (about 1½ pints):

Spain, Sweden, Czechoslovakia . . . 4
Hungary and Austria . . . 3½
Belgium, Bulgaria, Holland . . 3
England, Australia, Germany . 1

When it comes to wine drinking, France is again in the lead with an average yearly consumption per head of 100 litres.

As for beer, Germany has to take second place to Belgium where an average of over 100 litres is absorbed. —Reuter.

SINGER CLAIMS
$20,000 FOR NORMANDIE'S
'VIBRATION'

New York, Oct. 15.
NASTIA POLIAOVA, a Russian singer, has filed an action in New York claiming $20,000 damages from the French Line, owners of the Normandie.

She claims to have been a first-class passenger in the ship, and says that its vibration caused an internal injury which necessitated her undergoing an operation.

Officials of the line ridicule the assertion. —United Press.

ELEPHANT'S
MAN-POWER?

An elephant can, if it tries, spring more than a little surprise. It can shift trees, and lift trees. Or chase you and place you right up in the air by its eyes.

Miss Hanna, a Siamese elephant now in Japan, has been doing her best to vindicate this English nursery rhyme; but English experts complain that her best is not as good as it should be.

In a recent "tug-of-war" in the Tokyo Zoo, she was able to hold her own with only 55 men, and that by collapsing on her knees.

From inquiries, it appears that, while it is not good for an elephant to indulge in such direct trials of strength, a higher standard would be expected of any large, full-grown elephant.

An official of the London Zoo thought that 55 men was not many—but added that the history of the Zoo threw no direct light on what might be expected of an elephant in this way.

Mr. Bertram Mills

Miss Hanna did not look a very big elephant. From her photograph, he stated, he would guess that she was about 22-25 years old and only about three parts grown.

"I have seen elephants," he added, "that 100 men could not hold; and once a big elephant goes to sleep, if 500 men could stop her. Obviously it depends a great deal on both the size of the elephant and how the pull started."

An elephant may weigh anything from one to five tons, and a tug-of-war is, after all, very largely a matter of weight against weight."

Mr. Mills also considered that he would like to be assured that the proper tug-of-war rules, as followed at the Military Tournament at Olympia, had been obeyed before any precise value was attached to such a performance.

Mr. George Sanger, also of circus fame, added the view that a big elephant ought to be able to pull 100 men with ease.

ADVANCE STARTS

ITALIANS HEADING FOR MAKALE

Rome, Nov. 2. As a result of the past week's activities on the war fronts in East Africa the Italians in the north appear to be still a considerable distance from Makale. There has also been no general advance, though the vanguards of all three army corps have pushed forward.

Those of the 1st Army Corps on the left, under General Santini, have reached the Malacca Wells, less than half way between Adigrat and Makale. The native corps, in the centre, have reached Ifausien, a market town in fertile country, which is important both from political and military viewpoints. The 2nd Army Corps, on the right, has sent advance guards along the main caravan route from Adowa to Makale and by this time they have probably reached the Ueri River.

General De Bono appears to be planning an advance shortly to a line extending from the Danakil desert on the left roughly along the Gheva River southward to Makale, and then along the Takaze River to the point where it meets the Eritrean frontier.

The line, when finally secured, will include Makale and constitute a gigantic bulge into the Ethiopian territory. It will probably take two months to consolidate.—Reuter.

Capital As Goal

Rome, Nov. 2. In a communique received here to-day General De Bono reports that intensive reconnaissances have been made in the Haramat and Cherralt zones with a view to the immediate resumption of operations.

It is reported that some troops are already on the move thus officially confirming the long awaited drive on Makale with Addis Ababa as the Italians' eventual goal.—United Press.

Trucks on Move

Asmara, Nov. 2. Long columns of trucks have begun moving towards the front in an atmosphere indicative of an early resumption of an offensive. The occupation of Makale is expected at any moment, while the aerial activity, led by Count Ciano, is greatly intensified.—United Press.

Advance Starts

Rome, Nov. 3. A message from Asmara states that the Italian advance towards Makale has been resumed. The units involved in this manoeuvre are a Blackshirt Battalion, Askaris, artillery and irregulars, and 1,600 men commanded by Ras Gugsa. They comprise the 1st Army Corps under General Priolo.

It is not stated whether the 2nd Army Corps from Adowa is also on the move.—Reuter.

A United Press message states that 125,000 men are taking part in the advance.

Start at Dawn

Rome, Nov. 3. A message from Asmara states that a general drive opening the second phase of the Italian occupation of Ethiopia started shortly before 4 a.m. this (Sunday) morning.

The Italians' objective is the occupation of the southern portion of Tigre Province.—United Press.

Selassie's Highway

Asmara, Nov. 3. The occupation of Makale will be of tremendous importance to the Italians for it will place them within easy striking distance of the highway connecting Tigre Province with Addis Ababa.

This road is ironically referred to as "Selassie's 250 mile highway" which will cause his downfall.—United Press.

Italy's Losses

Rome, Nov. 1. It is officially announced that 193 officers and men of the Italian army have died in East Africa between January 1 and October 31. Of these only five were killed in action.—Reuter.

In addition 198 labourers have died since January 1.

No mention is made of the reported massacre of a supply train by Ethiopian warriors two days ago, and it would appear that the

SUCCESSFUL FETE

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL FUNCTION

The annual bazaar and al fresco fete organized by the Society of St. Vincent de Paul in aid of needy folk of the Colony was held yesterday in the grounds at the Rosary Church, Chatham Road. The bazaar attracted many hundreds of visitors imbued with the carnival spirit, the animated scene being continued, under electric lights of all colours, to 10 p.m. by which time most of the stalls were depleted.

For ways and means of capturing the elusive dollar, while making the extraction a pleasure, it is difficult to imagine a more diversified and effective campaign than that with which the visitor came into contact once fairly within the grounds of the bazaar.

He was besieged with plans to "take a chance of getting a bottle of champagne for ten cents," was told that he could win a turkey, and what must have been more to the point as the sky darkened and appetites grew keen, was offered sizzling "hot dogs" and other delicacies. Souvenirs, surprise packets, finishing games, American Lottery, and numerous other attractive side-shows and entertainments were there to be bought or tried. Dolls and other suitable presents were on display while the willing helpers did all that could be desired.

The Chinese Government in order to conserve the currency reserves of the country and to effect lasting measures in currency and banking reform has decreed effective from to-morrow November 4, firstly, that bank notes issued by the three Government banks, namely the Central Bank of China, the Bank of China, and the Bank of Communications shall be full legal tender and the banknote reserves of the three banks shall be placed under unified control.

The notes of all other issuing banks will continue in circulation but will gradually be withdrawn and replaced by notes of the Central Bank.

No new notes are to be issued by these banks and all their unissued notes, as well as banknote reserves, are to be deposited with the Central Bank.

Thirdly, all holders of silver will be required to exchange their silver for legal tender and notes.

Fourthly, the exchange value of the Chinese dollar will be kept stable at the present level and for this purpose the Government banks will buy and sell foreign exchange in unlimited quantities.

Banking Changes

The Government-owned Central Bank is to be re-organised as the Central Reserve Bank of China, and will be owned principally by the Banks and the general public, thus becoming an independent institution devoting itself chiefly to maintaining the stability of the nation's currency.

The Central Reserve Bank will hold reserves under the Banking System Act as a depository of all public funds, and will provide centralised re-discount facilities for other Banks, but will not undertake general commercial business.

After a period of two years it will enjoy the sole right of note issue.

A SIDELIGHT ON RESTRICTION

Owing to the agricultural depression in most countries today, sums equivalent to many millions of pounds are being paid in bonuses, subsidies and other forms of assistance to agriculture. This point was stressed by Mr. Stanley Bruce, High Commissioner for Australia, in the course of a discussion at the League of Nations Assembly some few weeks ago when he asked whether it would not be possible that these millions might be better employed in bringing about a greater consumption of products of the land, thereby improving the physical health of the people and the economic wealth of nations. The discussion was on the allied problems of agricultural depression and undernourishment of the people. It was stated, during the debate, that evidence existed to show that by the increased consumption of certain foods, great improvement in national health and efficiency could be achieved, and in this connection the point is made that in the less developed countries, the great masses are living on a bare subsistence level. Even in the most advanced nations, there is a stratum of people unable to obtain adequate nourishment.
Sir John Orr, Director of the Rowatt Institute, touching on this point, claims that no fewer than twenty millions of the British population are living on a diet which is deficient in food value, and it is pertinent in this connection to bear in mind that the State is involved in heavy expenditure in the treatment of disease, including that due to bad feeding. Cheap food of the right kinds would undoubtedly enable a lower expenditure on the nation's health services.
Lord de la Warr, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Agriculture, has expressed doubts as to the wisdom of the policy of restriction. Speaking of restriction of imports by tariffs and quotas as a solution of the agricultural problems, he pertinently asks whether these measures have not had the result of decreasing the consumption of food, to the loss not only of the consumer but of the farmer as well. Both on health grounds and on economic

NOTES OF THE DAY

FILM FANDOM GROWS UP

A great concession has just been made to the film-going public by one of Hollywood's leading personalities. He admits that they may now be said to have grown up. Therefore it has been decided by the intellectuals who enter for so much of the leisure of the British people that films in the future shall be more sophisticated. There will be less labouring of the obvious; audiences will be given credit for a little intelligence, and not treated as a solid mass of low-brows and nitwits. They will even be encouraged to use their imaginations a little more.
Many incidentals of the films that used to be deemed essential to their comprehension by the groundlings will now be left out as superfluous. Thanks apparently to the sedulous tuition of Hollywood, audiences have become quicker in the uptake. All this is very comforting, even complimentary. The torch of intellect lit in California has at last penetrated the primeval gloom of the British jungle. But, after all, was it not the Hollywood magnates who themselves had become the slaves of mental obsolescence, blindly following certain conventional lines of campaign while all the time their millions of patrons were wondering when it would dawn on them that the time had come for a change of method? The success of various British films in which the points are not heavily underlined and the audience is given credit for perception certainly supports the theory. The film director quoted above admits proudly that he has not had a holiday for seven years. Now, if he and his kind would shake off the slavery of the machine more frequently, and form new "contacts," with a view to ascertaining what ordinary people think of their efforts, the long overdue improvement in the generality of American films might at last get under weigh. It is much better to overrate than to underrate the intelligence of one's audience.
Hollywood's policy of "safely first"
should have been down for revision long ago.

A VICEROY'S WISE ADVICE

The system of democratic government about to be introduced into India has found a sensible advocate in Lord Willingdon, the British Viceroy in that country.
Lord Willingdon has been pointing out that only by working the reforms can Indians establish a successful claim to their extension.
Referring in the legislative Assembly at Simla to recent Hindu-Muslim disturbances of the public peace, Lord Willingdon said:
"No system of parliamentary government can be expected to work successfully and for the benefit of the people as a whole without the existence of a spirit of accommodation and willingness on the part of all sections to prefer the wider interests of the entire body-politic to the narrower ones of their own particular group."
The advice is well timed. The existing Indian legislature has just refused to pass an emergency bill giving to the new administration special powers for maintaining order in such circumstances as those which the Hindu-Muslim riots created. These powers, therefore, have had to be introduced by British authority. It would be premature to draw any conclusions adverse to the new system from the incident that has occurred. It is nevertheless well that the implications of such a happening should be recognised at an early stage. It will be by governing itself in smaller affairs that India will establish its claim to control of those greater.

supply, if carried too far, must result in general impoverishment. The statements quoted, which could be supplemented by others of a like character, serve to show a danger which is apt to be overlooked when applying measures in the hope of bettering the agricultural industry.
What is more, they point to the need of a real national food policy being devised and put into operation.

WAR OF HAND AGAINST MACHINE

THE position of the Italian army of East Africa is analogous to that of our own country when operating in South Africa in the Boer War.
The Italian plan is based on a short campaign ending before the next rains begin.

Supplies have been accumulated in the two Italian East African colonies sufficient to make the force at least semi-independent over a period of any large shipments through the Suez Canal. The strategy of the campaign evolves from this condition. Decisive results must be obtained within a time limit whose ultimate end is the fall of the rains in the early part of 1936.

It is idle to assume any close knowledge of the plans framed by the Italian Commander-in-Chief, a most able strategist with a tactical reputation still to make. But his intentions are revealed by progressive action, and the little we have seen to date indicates a broad outline.

Briefly, the assumption is that his main attack is in the north from Eritrea, with a holding movement in the south Italian Somaliland.

The slower movement in the south has the effect of tying down a large part of the Abyssinian army against the threat from that quarter and keeping it well away from the chance of any quick junction to aid the defence in the north when heavily pressed.

There are alternative uses for the force in the south. If the northern advance on Addis Ababa is held up in mountainous country, the southern force would press forward to afford relief by a new thrust towards the capital.

THERE is one other condition in the strategic field. The Italian army is divided into halves by the neutral territories of British and French Somaliland, and as a whole has no centre. Assuming that the large force of, perhaps, 180,000 is in the north an objective for it will be to send a flank force towards the railway line and form a centre which would connect with troops sent from the south, and so make a link-up.
Troops of this northern flank force are already moving through Aussa along the French frontier.

The southern connecting link, moving near the British border, has not been reported, but this is natural, as the distance is greater and movement slower and determined by the advance of the southern force as a protection.

The formation of a central force may, therefore, be expected to come from the north at first, and the force may get astride the railway line which connects Addis Ababa with the French seaport of Djibouti. The railway line is important, if it can be secured undamaged, for transport for a central attack on the capital.

There is assumption in this,
as the French have railway rights, and the two halves of the army might operate without a centre as independent bodies.
This is unlikely, as the centre must be cleared.

The current operations in the north have taken the form of a reconnaissance in force and the sentimental capture of Adowa (which town is off the true route) to avenge the defeat sustained in 1896. For some time the Italians can make use of their mechanised equipment, but as the advance goes on into the hill region more dependence will fall to infantry foot and mule-carried light artillery.

The work, in short, will resemble operations on the Indian North-West Frontier, which naturally will have been closely studied in relation to the phase where motor power declines in value and the queen arm of the old battles, infantry, comes into its own.

But under modern conditions the troops will be supported by heavy artillery firing from the back areas and covered at all times by aircraft.

NOW as to the Abyssinian defence:

The mountains are the chief ally of the 750,000 soldiers, of whom one half are in the North.
They have European engineers and artillerymen who know all that the Indian hills can teach them. They have laid out defences in depth which are manned by machine-guns. Hill-posted machine-guns are a great menace, since tanks cannot get at them.

The northern area round the capital is reported to be filled with the pick of the Abyssinian infantry armed with modern rifles, as also must the ammunition be. But the individual Abyssinian is a first-class marksman who does not waste ammunition, using one round on a certain mark always.

When Abyssinia is drawn from her prepared defences, the issue of prolonged resistance will depend on the correct use of these marksmen. If, because of the loss of prestige by retreat, it is decided to use men in masses, then the Italian task will be the more easy, with big targets for their modern weapons.

If, on the other hand, guerrilla warfare is adopted, the rains might intervene before the conquest of the country, as distinct from mere occupation, could be made.

On balance it may be anticipated that, if the Abyssinians do not fight in mass but preserve their men and ammunition, they will win within the period of the dry season.

Moreover, guerrilla tactics are best in the absence of modern artillery, the few modern Abyssinian guns being light ones and anti-aircraft weapons.

One may anticipate a guerrilla policy being adopted after some single defeat in mass. Reasons for adopting it are prolonged resistance, giving the Italians the maximum of difficulties; the avoidance of presenting targets for aerial bombing; and the chance of using the Abyssinian horsemen.

An indication of policy is to be found in the fact that the Abyssinians have formed a large cavalry force, estimated at 70,000 men. They are natural horsemen, can live on the country, and are riflemen as well as swordsmen. Part of the force is camely carrying rifle and lance (native spear).

A force of this size could carry a raiding campaign in aid of scattered infantry groups for a long time and make the Italian lines of communication difficult to hold. Such a force would raid for ammunition and rifles and supplies.

Split up between bodies not too big, these attacks could never be localised and there would always be the chance of a massed charge at formed bodies on the move.

ONE word about water.
The Abyssinians have the lakes and the wells behind them.
They can live on one-half of the food needed for a European and need no shelter. They can cover long distances, on foot, horse, or camel, without undue fatigue. As warriors they combine the adaptability of the Boer with the cunning of the Afri-didi.

How long will it take the Italians to over-run the country and establish control?

It took Britain 14 years to recover and administer the Sudan. The Italian view is a short campaign and a period of four years' occupation to set up an effective administration.
The calculation is optimistic.

NOTES & COMMENTS

More Scraps From Eddie Kelly's Scrapbook

THE Cockney child had just started school.
"What's yer name?" he was asked.
"Fred!"
"Blimey! That ain't a name—that's what yer muvver sews yer pants with!"

Isn't It So?

A Sunday school teacher yesterday asked his class to write down a definition of a heathen.
He received the following reply from one precocious youngster:
"Heathens are people who don't quarrel over religion!"

Eternal Why

Why do you paint your lips with red?
Dear little girl of the early head!
Why dab your cheeks with ghastly pink?
Why amidge your eyelashes with ink?
And pluck your eyebrows to extinction?
And achieve feminine distinction
By going platinum? Why ape
A futuristic nude in shape?
Why flatten curves? Why dress like dozers?
Of sisters, mothers, aunts, and cousins?
Why? Why? Why? Why? When
you possess
Unornamented loveliness?

Judas

On the exterior of the cathedral at Aksum, the Holy City of Ethiopia, are frescoes, one depicting the Last Supper. Twelve of the thirteen characters in this representation are black. The white man is Judas Iscariot.

Howler

A teacher came across the following while marking some recent class papers:
"Gas in its free state refers to that found in Ireland."

Accident

A man entered the out-patients' department of the Kowloon hospital.
His head was enveloped in bandages.
"Are you married?" asked Doc.
Smalley.
"No," replied the man, "I've been run over."

Bad Bot

Little Tommy came home from Sunday school yesterday with the distressing news that he had lost the penny given him for the collection.
"But that is three Sundays running that you have lost your penny," his mother complained.
"Well, I must win sooner or later," Tommy replied. "Fred's luck can't

More Howlers

Here is a selection of "howlers" from the collection of a Lanarkshire teacher:
The Royal Mint is what the King puts on his coat of arms.
A connoisseur is a person who stands outside a picture-palace.
A coroner's duty is to decide whether a man died a natural or fatal death.
An appendix is a portion of a book which nobody has yet discovered to be of any use.
The cobra is a little donkey that runs about the Himalayas.
Gravity was discovered by Isaac Newton. It is chiefly noticeable in autumn, when the apples are falling from the trees.

N.Y. ELECTION

New York, Nov. 3. The New Deal will receive its first test at the polls to-morrow. Mr. James A. Farley, the U.S. Postmaster General, has agreed to accept the Republican challenge to make to-morrow's state elections a test, as a prelude to next year's presidential elections.

New York is considered one of the key states, where the result of elections indicates "which way the wind is blowing." Said the Postmaster General: "Business is steadily improving in the United States and uncertainty as to the future is long since ended. Sales are increasing and the investment market is growing stronger daily."

Mr. Farley charged the Republicans with attempting to create a period of uncertainty for next year's national elections.—United Press.

SPENDING MILLIONS ON ROADS

The huge London transport scheme, involving an expenditure of over thirty million pounds, which would mean orders for rails, vehicles, locomotives and electrical apparatus, giving much employment.

With regard to unemployment, there were 1,087,000 more in employment than when the Government took office, and figures to be published to-morrow would show a reduction of over forty thousand in the numbers unemployed in October compared with the preceding month. He saw no reason to suppose they would not go on reducing unemployment, but the very first result of a return of a Labour Government must be an immediate increase of unemployment. He compared the Labour election programme with the Government's plans for better housing, educational reform, improved maternity services and raising the standard of health of the growing generation had everywhere been investigated and judged practicable and wise by men who, he asserted, in contrast with their Labour opponents, did expect to be called on to fulfil their promises.

CONSERVATIVE WEAPON

Speaking at Crewe, Mr. Attlee, Leader of the Labour Opposition, said the chief weapon in the Conservative armoury was fear. In 1924 there was the Russian bogey and in 1931 the danger to savings fear.

There were signs that fear would be used in the present election, too, to return the so-called National Government.—British Wireless.

League, Italy and Abyssinia. It was in this spirit that I had a series of very helpful talks with M. Laval and other French Ministers. It was in the same spirit that I myself had free and frank conversation with Baron Aloisi this morning.

Time, patience and understanding would be required for reconciling the divergent interests, and when or whether the League would succeed he could not say, but they were encouraged by the work done. "As a result of the collective action of 60 nations—a remarkable event in the history of the world—the League has shown its vitality. It has given a real stimulus to peace, both by its display of collective solidarity and its determination, at the same time, to encourage every honourable effort to make an end to the risks and horrors of war."—British Wireless.

FOREIGN BANKS
MAY FIGHT

tributing notes in the interior of China has encouraged this new step.

The consolidation of power to buy or sell exchange is regarded as conducive to stabilisation of the yuan which the Government and a widespread section of the business world desired.

Experts suggest that the chief problem in the programme will be the maintenance of a high silver coverage for the note issue, but as coverage to date has been higher than many nations' it is believed the Government can continue to maintain it by a judicious exercise of authority.—United Press.

ARSENAL DEFEATED

Win At Ibrox Park

There were again a fair number of surprise results in the English Football Leagues, the defeat of the Arsenal by Brentford and the failure of the Rangers to beat Queen's Park at Ibrox Park being the most prominent upsets.

CHURCH FETE

KOWLOON TONG
EVENT SUCCESS

Coconut shies, treasure hunts, skittles and all the rest of the merry delights of a fair were to be had at the fete held by the Kowloon Tong Anglican Church in their grounds on Saturday afternoon. The garden and building were packed with people, all intent on spending money for the good of the Church, and their own enjoyment.

The function was attended by the Hon. Sir Henry and Lady Pollock, Mr. R. O. Hall, Bishop of Hongkong and Mrs. Hall, the Rev. J. R. Higgins, Vicar of St. Andrew's Church, and Mrs. Higgins, the Rev. H. W. Baines, Dr. H. D. and Mrs. Matthews, Miss J. D. Sawyer, Headmistress of the Diocesan Girls' School, Mr. E. A. Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. P. Sin, and many others.

The Scouts and Cubs attached to the Church did good work, zealously handling the slideshows, and the distribution of programmes. When Lady Pollock, accompanied by Sir Henry, arrived to open the fete, a guard of honour was formed by the Cubs, and the distinguished patrons were welcomed by the Rev. L. L. Nash, priest in charge, and members of the committee, who were introduced together with Mrs. Easterbrook, the Lady Cubmaster.

At the opening ceremony, both the Bishop, who called upon Lady Pollock for her speech, and the Rev. Mr. Nash, who opened the proceedings, spoke optimistically of the future of the Church and their hopes of raising enough money to build a real one in the place of their present house. They had been encouraged by the results of last year's fete to hold another, and there was no reason, judging from the number of visitors present, why it should not be an even greater success.

After this, Lady Pollock, in the course of a charming speech, likened the Church to an acorn, small as yet, but destined to grow greater with time, and formally declared the fete open. She was given three hearty cheers, and presented with a lavender sachet and a basket of flowers by Miss Mary Urquhart and young Pat Bertram, the smallest members of the Sunday School class and Wolf Cubs respectively.

The Stalls

The Home Produce, the Woolies and the Sweets Stalls were heavily patronised, and several hundreds of dollars were taken. The slide shows were exceedingly popular, especially the "Twinkling Stars" and the coconut shies, for long before the footlights concluded they had run out of prizes and nuts.

The Treasure Hunt aroused keen interest, and the excitement was intense when the results were announced. The prizes for the ladies went to Mrs. Lay and Mrs. Blane, and those for the men to Messrs. Selk and Jex, while the Misses Betty Gittens and Pamela Best won the girls' prizes and Michael Hall and Wilfred Chan took those for the boys.

In the weight guessing competitions, Master L. Allen won the piglet, whose weight was 14 lbs. 7 ounces, and the goose, 9 lbs. 11 ounces, went to Mrs. G. B. Labrum. The cake, 3½ lbs., was taken by Mrs. Patey.

The tea department, handled by Mesdames Urquhart, Guest and Peters, was kept full throughout the greater part of the fete and their takings contributed largely to the total proceeds of over $1,100, $400 more than was collected last year.

The others who helped to make the afternoon a success were as follows:

Home Produce Stall, Mesdames Laurence and Fenner; Fancy Goods, Mesdames Kew and Fletcher; Woolies Stall, Mesdames Lay and Blane; and the Sweets Stall, Mesdames Jex and Wong. Sweet Stall, Mrs. Easterbrook and Wolf Cubs; Toy Stall, Mesdames Bertram and Credland; Treasure Hunt, Miss D. J. Lee and Messrs. Cunningham and Johnson. Fish Pond, Mrs. Bopker, Miss Cheung and Mr. Tang; Lucky Dip, the Misses Sue and Lang; Sideshow were run by the Men's Fellowship.

The Committee of the Garden Fete wish to express their gratitude for the help they received from the following:

The Asia Company, Blue Bird Co., British American Tobacco Co., (China) Ltd., China Dispensary, China Emporium, Ltd., Colonial Dispensary, Dairy Farm, Ice and Cold Storage Co., Ltd., Gilman & Co., Ltd., Hongkong Export & Import Co., Jardine, Matheson & Co., Ltd., W. Hutchison, Ye Old Printers, Sun Hing Knitting Co., Man Yip Knitting Co., Kowloon Dairy, Mr. S. K. Pang, Kowloon Cricket Club, St. Andrew's Church, Hongkong and Shanghai Hotels, Ltd., and many others for their kindness and co-operation.

At the Rosary Church on Sunday afternoon, the wedding took place of Miss Maria C. da Cruz and Mr. Joaquim J. Guterres, the Rev. Father, Rossi officiating. The bridegroom is the local representative of the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Co., and agent of the Company at Macao. The honeymoon is being spent in Saigon.

LEE WAI-TONG DONS SHOOTING BOOTS

HUGE GATE AT GAME OF THE SEASON

(By "Sagax")

Soundly thrashed by the South China Athletic Club XI to the tune of 6-1, the Navy team had at least the satisfaction of a good game and the knowledge that they had lost their hitherto unassailable League record to one of the best combinations that has delighted fans for several seasons.

With the pick of their best men newly returned from the National Games at Shanghai, South China fielded a substantial nucleus of the future Olympic football team headed by Lee Wai-tong and a capacity crowd turned up at Causeway Bay to watch the match.

Shorn of all trimmings the game was South China's from the kick-off—which incidentally they also won. The Navy were beaten individually; collectively they failed to get an understanding early on and were never allowed to settle down afterwards. The halves distributed badly and when the men did get in action they indulged in short passing and immediately lost the ball. Cannell was sent off a quarter of an hour from the end for taking a kick at Tom Kong-pak.

The stands were completely filled long before the start except for a sun-burnt section of the cheaper seats which was fully occupied when the first whistle blew. The turf was hard and fast and conditions were excellent for fast play.

The Navy eleven was unchanged, and lined up as follows: Hayman; Nicholson, Wolserson; Clarkson, Bowers, Lobb (Capt.); Dorran, Rose, Cannell, Jones, Wearmouth.

Lee Kwok-wai who was selected for left half was unable to turn out owing to an injury sustained at Shanghai and Leung Wing-chui moved over from the right half to take his position, the vacancy thus created being filled by Lau Hing-chol.

The team was: Wong Wing, Lee Tin-sang, Tam Kong-pak, Lau Hing-chui, Wong Mei-shun, Leung Wing-chui, Tso Kwai-shing, Fung King-cheung, Lee Wai-tong, Ip Pak-wah, Tay Quee-liang.

DEFENCE MISTAKE

Nicholson was early called upon to clear from a movement initiated by Leung Wing-chui from which Lee Wai-tong received in front of goal. Nicholson was called up to take a free kick from 40 yards out and sent in a beautiful ball which however, ineffectually skimmed the wrong side of the cross bar. The Chinese attacked strongly after this early raid and Hayman saved a thrilling situation by pushing out a shot to the left. Wolserson scored—but instead of making a big clearance he tried to pass and Leung Wing-chui sent the ball back into the danger area. Fung took possession and, with only a small target, put the ball into the net.

LEE ATONES

The ball went back into play and Lee gathered it 20 yards out on the right. He smashed in a daisy cutter at an oblique angle which Hayman could not reach and atoned for the previous mistake by increasing South China's lead to three goals.

Tao outpaced the defence with terrific sprints time and again and was a constant menace to the harassed sailors. In a sustained attack he sent across a low centre which Lee could not quite reach but which only needed diverting into the net. Lee put in two more shots but the clever Hayman kept getting in the way and finally Ip banged the leather over the bar.

Nicholson and Wolserson were working like Trojans but they could not keep both wings marked and a few minutes later Lee received 20 yards out. Entirely unmarked he took his time with a fast-rising shot which Hayman had no chance of reaching. Four goals to nothing!

SAILORS SCORE

Dorran beat the defence to create a promising position but could not make up his mind to shoot or pass. He compromised by putting the ball well and truly wide. The same player got his head to a nice centre but Wong was well placed to save. Ten minutes from the end Cannell was ordered from the field after an incident with Tam. The

An incident in the match between South China "B" and the Royal Welch Fusiliers on Saturday. This was the "B" team's first appearance in the League this season and they forced a goalless draw on their own ground.

Lee got going at top speed and though hard pressed by Wolserson beat the back for the ball and banged it hard past Hayman for the fifth goal of the match. A period of rather desultory play followed though Hayman was frequently tested and brought off a number of workmanlike clearances. Five minutes before the final whistle Wearmouth sent in a magnificent corner which Jones headed into the net to give the sailors their only goal.

In almost immediately following added a sixth goal for South China from an unmarked position.

SIKH WINS MILE CHAMPIONSHIP

For the first time in the history of Shanghai Municipal Council Police Annual Sports meeting, a Sikh captured the mile open championship at Hongkong Park. Above is a group of the entries going away from the start.

EXCITING HOCKEY

UNITED AND QUEEN'S BEATEN

At the Caroline Hill, the Union Hockey XI defeated a team from Queen's College by four goals to two. The game was fast and exciting, although the Unions had the better of the play throughout. All the goals were scored in the second half.

The first half saw the Union doing most of the attacking, but they failed to score. After five minutes play in the second half the Unions opened the scoring through their centre-forward, Narayan Singh. The same player scored three more goals in quick succession to give the winners a lead of four goals.

Janjit S. Gravel also played a good game for the winners.

Queen's College scored two goals through Kwok Min-ho and Sarwan Singh. Telok Singh, Narayan Singh, and Mahan Singh played a sound game while Mohinder Singh in goal was cool and steady for the winners.

For the losers Janjeet Singh at centre-half played a brilliant game. Had he not been there the score would have been higher. Janjit Singh and Sarwan Singh were also outstanding for Queen's College.

C.B.A. BEAT UNITED
The Central British Association defeated the United Hockey Club by two goals to nil in the Second Division of the Mamak Tournament playing at King's Park yesterday.

The play was fairly even in the first half, there being no scoring, although the C.B.A. had most of the attacking. In the second half T.S.D. Whitley and G. Fowler scored for the C.B.A.

At the Police Training School yesterday, the Indian Police defeated the Nomad Hockey Club by two goals to one. Rulla Khan and Taja Singh were the scorers for the Police and R. J. Reed replied for the losers.

The match was fast and exciting. Police scored their goals in the first half; after the internal the Nomads attacked strongly and obtained one goal after six successive corners.

The loss on the Sculling Championship of "Great Britain" last month between Ted Philips and Bert Barry has been assessed at $25. This sum is to be borne equally, by Phelps and Barry.

Charles Godfrey, the coloured American heavy-weight, is now the "world heavy-weight champion," according to the International Boxing Union. In the championship bout in Paris Godfrey beat Pierre Charles (Belgium) on points.

RIFLE SHOOTING

Lt. Berlyn Again Heads Competitors

In spite of two of the affiliated Rifle Clubs having a friendly match on another range, the attendance at Stonecutters on Saturday afternoon for the Spoon and Practice shoot was not only well up to the average, but several new members attended for the first time.
Weather conditions were ideal, although more than one competitor was troubled in the later stages of the shoot, by the wind veering round from six to four o'clock.
Probably the outstanding feature of the shooting was the way in which those members—using the aperture sight and sling, have shown marked improvement in their aggregate scores, when these are compared with those made a few weeks ago. There is no doubt that this result is solely due to consistent practice, and it is because of this that the Council urge members to attend as regularly as possible.

It is announced that the "Grimes" Spoon, which is given to the member of the Association, whose scores during the previous month show the greatest improvement, has been awarded for October to Private W. H. Peckham, R.A.S.C.

Two of the Canadian boxers who will do their fighting for the edification of British audiences under the management of Mike "Kaz" Kaplan, Kitchener and Edmonton promoter, are here. They are Eddie Wensath of Edmonton, a smart light-heavyweight, who it is expected will look up with Eddie Phillips for the British light-heavy title soon, and Tommy Bland of Toronto (left), Canadian light-weight champion. Wensath has been campaigning in England and was well satisfied with conditions. Bland is also rated a prospective title contender.

CAMERON DEAD

FAMOUS SOUTH AFRICAN CRICKETER

Johannesburg, Nov. 2.
The death has occurred of H. B. Cameron, the South African wicket-keeper from eastern Transvaal.
Hornor, Braamfontein, Cameron, vice-captain and batsman-wicket-keeper, might have been captain of the last South African team had he not lived up to his reputation for modesty. He held the leadership in South Africa, Australia and New Zealand for two seasons but retired in favour of Wade because he felt that his stumping and batting were quite enough for him to look after.

PLAYED IN 16 TESTS

Cameron had already played under Wade—when they were boys together at Hilton College, Natal. Cameron was then vice-captain of the cricket team and "Rugger" eleven. He was an experienced Test player, having figured in 16 Tests since 1927, including one at Manchester two years later, in which he scored 83. Since his last visit to England he seemed to have become more serious—perhaps because he was one of the South African team selected for a committee—although he was still care-free but never irresponsible.

ALSO FINE BATSMAN

He stumped men out with the nonchalant gesture of a smoker flicking the ash from his cigarette. He had already done something remarkable with the bat, for he and Viljoen, in a fifth-wicket partnership, made the biggest stand of the last tour when they scored 202 (Cameron 132) against Derbyshire. He was later featured in his best performance on the tour when he was undefeated for 103 against Yorkshire the Champion County, who were beaten by 128 runs. Like Wade, he was in his 30th year. He was one of the three married men of the party. He used to play baseball.

SUCCESS IN TEST

Cameron played in the last series of Test matches in England, when the South Africans won the rubber and the "Ashes" and met with considerable success on the tour.
He scored two centuries, 132 against Derbyshire and 103 not out against Yorkshire. In the first Test, which was abandoned on the third day owing to rain, he scored 62 in the only innings the South Africans completed. In the second Test, which South Africa won, he scored 90 in the first innings and three in the second. The third Test was drawn, and Cameron scored nine and 24. In the fourth Test, which was also drawn, he scored 63 in the first innings; and in the last Test, which was also left drawn he scored eight and 42.

SERIAL STORY

DONNA OF THE BIG TOP

by BEULAH DOWNIER

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

DONNA GABRIEL and MADELINE SIDDAI, who call themselves "The Gabriel Sisters" are circus performers. Years earlier Madeline ran away from her grandfather's farm.

When Donna is injured by a fall from a (circus) ladder, Madeline takes her to the farm to recuperate. To please her partner Donna pretends to be Madeline. She falls in love with SIDDAL, Madeline's cousin, and though she is ashamed of deceiving him, she is determined to keep the truth.

CON DAVID, circus animal trainer, loves Donna but when Madeline tells him that her partner is married, he leaves Donna, but to him, Madeline is Donna. Though terrified of the lion and tigers she takes part in his animal act.

Con sees one of Donna's letters to Madeline and discovers how she tricked him into marriage.

CHAPTER XIX

When the animals had been driven back through the covered runway and the uproar had subsided, Renfroe United Con. "What's the idea?" he demanded. "Trying to commit suicide or pull a new act?"

"Neither." The animal trainer strode through the vast, covered corridor that led from the "big top" to the dressing tent, brushing aside everyone who stood in his way.

Madeline was waiting at the door of her dressing room. Under the rouge her cheeks were pale and her eyes black. "Say, what's the matter with you?" she began.

Con caught her wrist, jerked the door open with his other hand and almost flung her into the room. The two other women who shared the dressing room stared at him in amazement.

"Get out," he told them.

Both left quickly, without a word. Occasional quarrels and even fights were to be expected between married couples and Con was notoriously temperamental. But this was no quarrel, fight and all, it was none of their business Madeline looked capable of taking care of herself.

Alone with Madeline, Con became deadly calm. A smile that distorted his features, robbing them of all attractiveness, spread over his face. "So Donna is to be married?" he drawled.

"Why—why, yes. I told you that a long time ago."

"Yes, you told me. You told me before she had even thought of such a thing. Let's see—how many months ago was it? Long before you trapped me."

"Don't you say I trapped you!" Madeline rasped.

"Why not? You knew that if I hadn't thought Donna was going to marry that rascal, you wouldn't have married you. So you lied. You told me she'd written you that they were engaged."

"Talking about this?" Con extracted the letter from his pocket and flung it at her. "Oh, I read it! If you can convince me that Donna Gabriel ever wrote you that she was going to be married, I'm the King of England! Good God, you women are more treacherous than tigers! I suppose she's marrying him now because you married me."

Madeline burst into hysterical laughter. "Of all the conceits! Don't tell me you still believe Donna would ever have had you! She couldn't see you for what you are, and she couldn't know it! Yes, I lied when I said they were going to be married. Why not? I was fool enough to think that if you knew you could never have her you'd snap out of it and begin to get something out of life."

"With you?"

"Yes, with me. It's only your damned pride and conceit that's causing you now. That's all it ever was between you and Donna—and don't tell me any different. I've lived with you long enough to know you'll never love any one but yourself. The only reason you wanted Donna was because you couldn't have her. I don't care if she's married or not. I don't want you. Not any more!"

Madeline picked up a chair, laid her head on the shelf before the mirror and burst into angry tears.

Tears were a defence Con could not combat. He paced the little room and whistled disconsolately and then swung on his heels and left.

Madeline picked up the letter, read it through and then destroyed it. She and Con had both spoken in the heat of passion but they had said things that were not easily forgiven. Con had forgotten. With her success in the animal act, Madeline had hoped to discover that Donna had been neither enraged nor married until after his own wedding showed Madeline only too plainly that he did not love her, that he still cared for the other girl.

Con was well aware of his conceit but he did not want any one else to mention it, least of all the woman who bore his name. Madeline had added insult to injury and he could not forgive her.

Because the scene still rankled and because both were stubborn, the strained situation continued. Con had never known humility. Never in his life had he admitted himself in the wrong. The overtures toward reconciliation would have to come from Madeline, and Madeline, in the throes of jealousy, convinced herself that she hated Con and did not care if they never spoke again.

Consequently the breach widened. Con treated Madeline with a supercilious courtesy that infuriated her and fanned to a higher flame her hatred and jealousy. Probably during those days when she completely ignored him he came nearer to loving her than at any other time. She had spoken truly when she said that because Donna cared nothing for Con that he had been so determined to win her.

Lucy, the Bengal, was the only one of his beasts Con really cared for. Lucy could not be tamed. She could be driven into the ring and forced to perform, but she would never let him conquer her if he had to kill her.

"Better watch out," Renfroe warned. "I don't have to tell you that there are some cats you can't tame. That beast is a devil. You'll never lick him."

"I will if it's the last thing I do!" Con vowed.

And it was because he had met his match in this jungle cat that Con loved her. He had vowed to win her, to conquer her if he had to kill her.

might have given her as much affection as he was capable of giving any one.

But Madeline was a woman in love. After a week's coolness, when she alternated between hating Con and aching for him, she smothered her pride and begged his forgiveness.

"It was because I loved you," she sobbed. "I know it was a rotten thing to do but I was just crazy and I knew Donna would never marry you. I'm telling you the truth, the God's truth! Donna had a crush on Bill Siddai the first time she went to visit my grandfather and I knew if she and Bill were thrown together they'd get married. You've got to forgive me, Con. I can't go on like this! It's just killing me to have you treat me this way."

"I suppose it was your idea to have Donna go to the farm after the accident?"

"Well, it was a lot better than having her stay in a hospital and it saved expense."

"And threw her and your precious cousin together? Just what does your grandfather think of Donna's spending on him this way?"

"Why, he thinks she is—er—no loves her because—"

"I heard you the first time. So your grandfather thinks Donna is your cousin? You told me he is well-to-do?"

"Not rich, but the farm is worth something. He's comfortably fixed. Why?"

"It strikes me that in your anxiety to marry your partner off so you could get your clutches on me you've thrown away your inheritance."

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

"Brewster's Millions." Jack Buchanan's latest musical film, which comes to the King's Theatre this Wednesday, has well proved itself the most ambitious "musical" yet made in England. For the big scene of the film, a Coriscan carnival in which more than a thousand revellers take part, the studio technicians constructed an exact replica of a Coriscan market square at Ajaccio, the headquarters of Corsica. This huge set, comprising churches, shops, cafe and three-story dwelling houses, covered ten acres of the B. and D. studios and occupied the attention of a host of workers for many weeks. Another sequence was filmed on the decks and bridge of a 1,500-ton luxury yacht, which the director chartered for a week's cruise in the vicinity of the Isle of Wight. A third set shows the interior of a Mayfair mansion of the grand old world, most imposing kind, which a fourth depicts the kind of office suite that multi-millionaire captains of industry dream about, a palatial affair, all marble, chromium plate and modernity. These are some of the titling grounds for the hilarious story of a man who is obliged to spend half a million of money in six months in order to qualify for a legacy of six millions—a story which made thousands of pre-war theatre-goers laugh their heads off. Lill Damita plays opposite Jack Buchanan, with supporting cast including Fred Emney, Fairbrother, Ian McLean, Amy Veness, Anthony Holles and Sebastian Shaw. The musical numbers are by Ray Noble and Thornton Freeland, of "Whoopee" fame, directors.

"Red Hot Tires"

Mary Astor and Lyle Talbot talked in over-enthusiasm for two days as a result of whipsawing together in the first National picture "Red Hot Tires," coming soon to the Queen's and proposed to her because she had Theatre, one of the sequences reveals the pair as excited spectators of a midge automobile race. They were supposed to be moved to a high pitch of excitement in watching the thrilling sport. It has been planned, however, that the two would need no loud and long that horse-drawn would result, but that's what actually happened. Both are racing enthusiasts and when they watched the daredevil race track stunts, they completely forgot themselves and cheered louder and longer than was necessary for picture purposes. "Red Hot Tires" is a dynamic drama with speed thrills that will take the breath of the audience. There is a stirring and unusual romance in which two daredevil drivers battle both for racing honours and the love of a beautiful girl. In the cast, besides Talbot and Astor, are Roscoe Karns, Frankie Darro, Gavin Gordon, Mary Treen and Henry Kolker.

"Cardinal Richelieu"

To attempt to picture the dignified George Arliss, who brings his latest historical characterisation to the screen of the King's Theatre in the title role of Darryl Zanuck's "Cardinal Richelieu," blithely singing his way through a musical comedy is to tax the imagination almost beyond the bounds of reason. But the screen's most distinguished character actor actually earned his living in exactly this fashion during one season early in his career. He admits that his voice was pretty dreadful and after that season he kept a promise to himself not to let it happen again. Arliss was born in London on April 10, 1868. He indulged his childhood ambition to act by putting on amateur theatricals in the basement of a small theatre in the home. At his father's insistence, he spent a year in his publishing house. Then he joined the old Elephant and Castle stock company, playing in blood and thunder "mellors" tours of the English provinces, with various stock companies followed and then came the memorable singing season. He met his wife in a theatrical school and proposed to her because she had

"nice arms." After a number of appearances with Mrs. Pat Campbell's London company he accompanied her stock company to America, and met with great success that he remained there. After appearing in "The Darling of the Gods" and several plays with Mrs. Fiske, he was starred in "The Devil" and "The Millionaire" and then "Disraeli"—in which he played for five years. Then came "Paganini," "Hamlet" and "The Green Goddess." He entered the silent films at this point and made "The Devil," "The Ruling Passion," "The Green Goddess" and "Disraeli." Arliss returned to the stage to star in "Old English" and toured the country in "The Merchant of Venice." The arrival of "talkies" induced him to return to films to remake "Disraeli" and "The Green Goddess." He has since achieved a brilliant screen career, the highlights of which were "The Millionaire," "The Working Man," "Voltaire" and, since joining Zanuck and Joseph M. Schenck's 20th Century Picture Company releasing through United Artists, "The House of Rothschild," "The Last Gentleman" and the current "Cardinal Richelieu." During a trip to England in the course of which he did intensive research for "Richelieu," he made "The Iron Duke," in which he portrayed the Duke of Wellington.

"Becky Sharp"

Inaugurating what many believe to be a new era in screen entertainment, Pioneer Pictures' first full-colour feature, "Becky Sharp," is now thrilling audiences at the Queen's Theatre. Based upon William Makepeace Thackeray's famous fiction classic, "Vanity Fair" and the Langdon Mitchell stage play "Becky Sharp," it stars Miriam Hopkins. Produced entirely in the new three-component Technicolor, it promises a revelation in beauty, fidelity to life and clarity. It is the first full length dramatic motion picture of this process and may, as many predict, revolutionize the entire future course of the film industry because colour perfection is now available. Coming as it does, a Rouben Mamoulian production,

CORNEA GRAFTING

REMARKABLE OPERATIONS PROVE SUCCESSFUL

London, Nov. 2.

Two remarkable cornea grafting operations, carried out at the Central London Ophthalmic Hospital early last month, have proved so successful that both patients, one of whom has been blind since birth, and the other for 28 years, are expected to recover their sight.

In the case of the man born blind, substitution of visual reception for sense of touch will probably take some time, but he has already been able to count his fingers and distinguish colours—British Wireless.

It would be difficult to compare the juvenile dancers individually, but it should be sufficient to state that a number of them displayed a pleasing grace and rhythm. Frank carried out their part with a confidence which some of the other girls lacked. Perhaps they were a trifle over-enthusiastic, but that can be easily forgiven when one notices with what alacrity they carried out their part. A word of praise is also due to the more advanced pupils. Their numbers were not so great, but they were all well educated. In their dancing they displayed no doubtless be over-garbed in pretty and gaudy "costume." These participating "students" presented a pretty sight when they were dressed in their own everyday accessories of dark blue and white. The smaller girls were called the "Dutch Dance" were picturesque.

WORKS RE-OPENED

SOUTH CHINA BRICK AND TILE FACTORY

With the recommencement of work at the brick and tile works of the former South China Brickworks, Limited, employment has been given to over 100 workmen. The entire plant has been taken over and is being worked by a newly organized firm, the South China Brick and Tile Factory.

The official opening took place on Saturday, when a tour of the works was conducted by Mr. Lee Ching, Works Manager, and the various phases of brick and tile making was explained. Tea was subsequently served by Mrs. Lee Ching. Among those present were Mr. Young Tsin-tai, Director, Mr. Lo Yuk-tong, Managing Director of Bakilly and Company, and Mr. Yung Hin-chay of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China.

The factory, which is situated at San Hui (New Market), Castle Peak, New Territories, about fifteen minutes' walk from the main road, occupies an area of more than 45 acres. The building consists of a power room, fabrication room, drying chambers, Behrer's kilns, offices, stores, coal bunkers and other subsidiary buildings, occupying about 90,000 square feet of ground.

Enterprise on the part of the new company is shown in a novel and effective method of advertising. A part of a hill to the side of the works has been cleared and the name of the company has been constructed with bricks in the form of Chinese characters, which are about 30 square feet in size, and can be seen from the main road.

The Main Building

The main building is shaped like a converted T. A row of drying chambers, numbering 60 in all, forms the cross-bar, while a total of 36 kilns extend along both sides of the stem of the building. Offices and living quarters are situated in the front part of the premises, while at the extremity is the power plant upon which the entire works depend.

The machines are all electrically driven, and are connected to the electric mains of the China Light and Power Co., Ltd. Two auxiliary diesel power plants are also installed for emergency and other uses. The plant, together with the machinery, has lately been overhauled. Additional fixtures, alterations and other machinery have been added.

There are more than three miles of light railway track to facilitate the handling of raw materials and finished products. A stone bund of about 300 ft. provides anchorage for lighters and junks immediately along the yard.

The quarry and pits contain a variety of strata of very fine clay. In fact, the deposits there are considered to be finest in the Colony.

Cost of Machinery

The original designing of the works, very little of which has since been altered, was by the Credit Foncier D'Extreme-Orient, 11th-Me-G-Yan Wyke in charge. The cost was in the neighbourhood of $275,000. Machinery in the plant cost about $80,000.

A fact worthy of mention is that the process of lighting the kilns necessitates an expenditure of $800. It was explained that once the fire had been lit they were constantly kept burning. Recording devices installed in a chamber on the same level, and opening on to the office, enable the discovery of any diminishing fire in the kilns below. In the same chamber the floor is dotted with vent-holes through which coal is fed to maintain the required heat.

100,000 Bricks a Day

The capacity output of the factory at the present moment is calculated to be 100,000 bricks a day.

The output at present consists of common building bricks, perforated bricks, clinkers, facing bricks and hollow floor and partition tiles. The Company have supplied bricks and hollow tiles for use of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank building and the Bank of East Asia building. Besides these, they have supplied various contracting firms for other important buildings of both commercial and domestic character. The present Company has continued and is still supplying Messrs. Logan and Amps, Construction Engineers of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, with the same products for their finishing work in that building.

Opinion is that the products of this company are of the highest quality obtainable locally. They look forward to the time when they will be in a position to introduce to the building public other varieties of bricks, such as bricks of various colours, glazed facing bricks, etc.

The factory work is supervised by Mr. Lee Ching, the Works Manager and Supervising Engineer, and he has under him a staff of 110 regular workers and 40 odd-job men. The Hongkong sales office is managed by Mr. H. K. Lee, Hongkong Sales Manager, at the Bank of Canton Building.

The rainfall registered at the Hongkong Botanic Gardens during October amounted to 5.45 inches, fairly evenly distributed throughout the month.

Latest transfers in the Hongkong Police Force include that of Acting Sub-Inspector Hughes from Yauwatt to Central, and Sergeant Goddard from Central to Tsimshatsui.

WANG CHING-WEI BETTER

SECOND BULLET EXTRACTED

Nanking, Nov. 2. It was officially announced at 10 a.m. to-day that Mr. Wang Ching-wei's condition is satisfactory.—Reuter.

Bullet Taken Out

Nanking, Nov. 2. Mr. Wang Ching-wei is now believed to be out of danger. He underwent an operation this afternoon, when the bullet in his left cheek was removed, but the bullet in his back has not yet been extracted.—Reuter.

Revolutionaries' Faith

Nanking, Nov. 2. A bulletin issued this morning stated that Mr. Wang Ching-wei passed a comfortable night and his condition was satisfactory.

His wife is convinced that he will not die. "If he was destined to die for the cause of the Chinese revolution," she said, "he would have died 27 years ago when he went to Peiping to kill the Prince Regent and was arrested himself." (Madame Wang accompanied Mr. Wang on that abortive mission, which so nearly cost his life).

Meanwhile the conference rudely interrupted yesterday was resumed this morning, an extra heavy guard protecting the delegates.—Reuter.

Fear of Complications

Nanking, Nov. 2. Unless complications develop within the next twenty-four hours, Mr. Wang Ching-wei has an even chance of recovering, declared an official who left his bedside at 12.30 a.m. to-day.

He said the Minister was sleeping peacefully. Meanwhile, doctors are trying hard to save the life of the gunman. Sun, whom police are anxious to question further.

Mingled with the general gloom over Mr. Wang's misfortune was the relief at the news that Mr. Ren Nai-kwang and Mr. Chang Chi were uninjured. The only other casualty was a janitor who was wounded in the leg by a stray bullet. He was taken to hospital and is out of danger.

Servant Also Injured. Besides Mr. Wang Ching-wei and the assailant the only other person injured was a servant at the party headquarters, who was hurt, but not seriously, by a stray bullet in the leg.—Reuter.

Physician Recalled

Peiping, Nov. 2. It is reported that a telegram has been sent to Taiyuanfu in an endeavour to secure the return as early as possible to Nanking of Dr. Noll, Mr. Wang's physician. Dr. Noll is at present on a hunting trip in Shansi, somewhere to the west of Taiyuanfu.—Reuter.

Rumours Suppressed?

Shanghai, Nov. 2. Rumours are current that Mr. Wang Ching-wei is dead, and that this news has been suppressed on account of the arrival here on Saturday of the U.S. Vice-President, Mr. John Garner and a party of American Congressmen. The rumours, however, have been positively disproved by the departure of the American doctor, Dr. J. R. B. Branch, for Nanking at 12.30 p.m. when he was summoned to attend to the wounded statesman.

Despite the optimistic official bulletins, Mr. Wang Ching-wei's condition is obviously serious. The elimination of Mr. Wang Ching-wei from the political scene for an indefinite period will leave Marshal Chiang Kai-shek the single strong figure of the Chinese Government.—United Press.

A later United Press message from Nanking says that Mr. Wang continues to improve.

Canton Told He Is Dead

Canton, Nov. 2. Correspondents of the Canton vernacular press living in Shanghai have been up against a strict censorship, and their messages, sent from the foreign concessions, are most conflicting. One such report, which it is claimed is substantiated by private advices, has it that Mr. Wang Ching-wei passed away at 6.30 last night.—Our Own Correspondent.

Bulletin Hospital

Nanking, Nov. 3. A bulletin issued at 10 a.m. yesterday reports that Mr. Wang Ching-wei's condition is good, and "his urine is free from sugar." The swelling round his left eye has subsided considerably so that he can now open both eyes simultaneously.

(The United Press confirms this news and adds that the bullet is lodged near Mr. Wang Ching-wei's spine.)

Question of Successor

The question as to who shall act for Mr. Wang has not yet

OFFER OF BRANDY

ADULTERATED LIQUOR WITH GENUINE LABELS

Chan Chun-fong, a student, of Canton, appeared before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy on Saturday, when evidence was heard in a case in which he is charged with possession of four bottles of dutiable brandy at Kennedy Road, and with possession of four bottles of adulterated liquor to which a trade mark had been falsely applied.

Mr. F. G. Nigel appeared on behalf of Mr. J. P. Lambert, local representative of Messrs. Rondon and Company, agents for Hennessy brandy, the trade mark of which had been applied to the bottles.

Mr. J. P. Lambert, residing at No. 128, Kennedy Road, said that he was manager of Messrs. Rondon and Company. On Saturday last, a man came to his house about 3.30 p.m., and was told by the houseboy to go away. He asked the houseboy who the man was and the "boy" said that the man had offered some brandy for sale. He asked the "boy" to call the man back, because he had had trouble in the past in connection with adulterated brandy being sold as Hennessy brandy.

Became Suspicious

When the man, who was the defendant, came back, he asked him what kind of brandy he sold, and defendant stated it was Chinese brandy. Defendant also, in reply to a question, said he sold Hennessy brandy, which he had got from ships at $3.50 a bottle. He offered defendant $2.50 a bottle, and eventually it was settled at $3 a bottle. Defendant became suspicious at all the questioning, and asked the "boy" whether he (witness) was in the Police, and was told by the "boy" he was not.

Defendant then left, and returned later with a basket containing three bottles of Hennessy brandy which he handed to the "boy". Witness opened one of the bottles, and found it was not brandy, but was composed of alcohol, tea and sugar. The bottles all bore the trade mark of the genuine Hennessy brandy. The stoppers had apparently been opened, and a green Macao tobacco duty label had been fixed on.

Attempted to Escape

Witness then stated that he went to the staircase and saw two men there, the defendant and another. He asked them to come in, and with the assistance of the "boy" attempted to force them to come in, but one man got away. He seized hold of the defendant, and then rang up the Wanchai Police Station. On the stairs was found another basket containing another bottle of Hennessy brandy. The genuine Hennessy brandy cost about $3.60 a bottle.

Mr. H. A. Taylor, Monopoly Analyst and Assistant Superintendent of the Imports and Exports Department, next deposed that the bottles contained spirits with about 30 per cent alcohol. The spirit had apparently been coloured with caramel and the odour was due to essence of vanilla. The spirits had not the taste nor the aroma of Hennessy brandy.

The hearing was at this stage adjourned, and defendant was formally remanded until 11 a.m. on November 5, when a further date for hearing will be fixed.

Sir Robert and Lady Ho Tung have issued invitations to a garden party at No. 264, The Peak, next Wednesday, November 6, at 3.30 p.m., for the purpose of meeting the Vice-President of the United States of America and the Congressional Delegation to the Philippines Inauguration of the Commonwealth.

been discussed and his colleagues are probably waiting a few days to see how the patient is progressing.

Temporarily Dr. H. H. Kung is acting as President of the Executive Yuan and Mr. Hsu Mo has taken charge of the duties of the Foreign Office.

An unconfirmed, but sensational rumour persists that the assailant was shot by his own accomplices, and not by Mr. Wang Ching-wei's body guard, in order to close the mouth of the assailant and make it more difficult for the authorities to trace the principals of the plot.—Reuter.

Call to Nanking

Canton, Nov. 3. In response to an urgent telegraphic call from Nanking, Doctor Harry W. Miller, prominent American surgeon, who is here at attending the Third National Medical Conference, left Canton this morning by C.N.A.C. plane for Nanking to attend Mr. Wang Ching-wei.—Reuter.

Latest Bulletin

Nanking, Nov. 3. A bulletin issued by the Central Hospital at 6 p.m. states that Mr. Wang Ching-wei's condition continued favourable. Mr. Wang's temperature was 37.7 Centigrade at 4 p.m.

A joint consultation was held this afternoon shortly after the arrival of the two foreign doctors from Shanghai by aeroplane. The result of the joint consultation was that the patient's general condition was satisfactory. The two Shanghai doctors are leaving here to-night by train, but they are ready to respond to any emergency call.—Wah-Kiu-Yat Pa.

ITALIAN ATTACK ON 100-MILE FRONT

THREE COLUMNS ADVANCING BRIEF SKIRMISHES FOUGHT

TANKS AND PLANES IN VAN OF ARMIES

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received Nov. 4, 11 a.m.)

With the Italian Army at the Front (via Asmara), Nov. 3.

Italian and native troops numbering 125,000, aided by thousands of irregulars, tanks and aeroplanes, advanced on a 100-mile front to-day.

Three columns commenced to attack at dawn and reached all objectives before nightfall, occupying a huge slice of territory in Italy's name.

Except for minor skirmishes, the only opposition furnished was in natural obstacles. The columns went streaming through dense forest country then plunged into deep-carved mountain passes, in the shadow of towering peaks.

General Biroli's centre column, composed of Askiris and Blackshirts, after fourteen hours of marching, reached Hausien, an important caravan station almost halfway to Makale, which was their immediate objective. The column did not fire a shot.

General Santini, on the right flank, encountered scattered guerrilla resistance. General Maravigna, on the left, with a specially equipped native camel corps and a mule corps, accompanied by Ras Gufsa and his 1,500 bodyguards, struck into the Daniakali desert.

FLYING VANGUARD
Every available aeroplane roared back and forth across the path of the advancing columns, seeking possible Ethiopian concentrations. Count Ciano, brother-in-law of Signor Mussolini, and Bruno and Vittorio Mussolini, all flying altitudes, participated in these flights.

The largest concentration of tanks ever employed in any military operation ground across the rugged terrain, screening the columns' flanks and poking their steel noses into valleys suspected of harbouring defending warriors. Many of the tanks dragged five-inch guns with them.

MAKALE ON MONDAY
It is believed that Makale will be occupied on Monday, in order to synchronise the seizure of another major objective with an important Italian holiday, the anniversary of the World War armistice on the Italian front. Aviators reported small groups of Ethiopian machine-gunners and artillerymen along the flanks of the column advancing on Makale. Correspondents believe the entire operation will require no more than four or five days, after which there will probably be a long pause for the purpose of consolidating the similar initial push to the Adigrat, Adowa and Aksum line.—United Press.

OBJECTIVES REACHED
With the Italian Army on the Northern Front, (via Asmara), Nov. 3.

The Italian Army's first wave reached all its objectives in the general advance to-day. Thus the legions of Rome added another slice of Ethiopian territory to the area under the occupation. The troops occupied Hausien at noon. A native army corps entered the town, having met with no resistance whatever.

MINISTER'S REVIEW

London, Nov. 3.
The Foreign Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, and the Minister for League Affairs, Mr. Eden, both returned to London to-day after yesterday's meeting of the Co-ordination Committee of the fifty-two League States which has appointed November 18 as the date for concerted application of the proposed economic sanctions against Italy.

In a speech broadcast to British listeners before he left Geneva last night, Sir Samuel said:—"Today has been a very important day in the history of the League." The meeting of the Co-ordination Committee had given a clear and satisfactory answer to the doubts which had arisen in some minds whether collective action might be smothered under a mass of technical details and special reservations. It was a great achievement that 50 League States had promised support to the League action, and he congratulated them.

"The result has been due neither to British pressure nor to Franco-British pressure, but to a common effort of many States, great and small, representing many different interests. Secondly, the League has given its blessing to the efforts that we and the French Government are making for peace. Speech after speech was made this afternoon wishing these efforts every success."

LEAGUE

A Gazette Extraordinary issued in Hongkong this morning notifies that His Majesty has under section 1 of the Treaty of Peace Act, 1919, made an Order in Council intitled "The Treaty of Peace (Covenant of the League of Nations) Order, 1935," dated the 26th October, 1935, for bringing into effect the decisions adopted by the Co-ordination Committee of the League of Nations under Article 16 of the League Covenant.

The Order in Council applies to the United Kingdom, the Colonies and Protectorates and territories in respect of which a mandate is exercised by His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom.

A copy of the Order in Council will be published in the Hongkong Government Gazette when it is received in the Colony. Generally the effect of the Order is as follows:

(a) to prohibit as from the date of the Order the export to Italian territory of rifles, guns, pistols, ammunition, armoured vehicles, war vessels, aircraft and parts thereof and all products destined for chemical or incendiary warfare and explosives; (b) to prohibit, as from such date as the President of the Board of Trade may by order appoint, export to Italian territory of specified commodities including metals and ores, transport animals, and rubber; (c) to prohibit as from such date as the President of the Board of Trade may by order appoint, import of all goods from Italian territory except gold or silver bullion or coin; (d) to prohibit, as from such date as the Treasury may by order appoint, loans to or for the Italian Government, or persons or corporations in Italy, and subscriptions to such loans, and credits to or for the Italian Government, or persons or corporations in Italy, and issues of shares or capital flotations for persons or corporations in Italy.

Dates appointed under paragraphs (b) and (c) of this Notice will be notified in due course. The date appointed by the Treasury under paragraph (d) is the 29th October, 1935. The expression "Italian territory" in paragraphs (a), (b) and

A nation-wide plebiscite, held yesterday, shows that the nation overwhelmingly favours a return of the monarchy.

In welcoming the new Governor-General, the Premier declared that Lord Tweedsmuir, as John Buchanan, the writer, had been a familiar friend to Canadian homes for many years.

Lord Tweedsmuir, in reply, expressed admiration for the achievements of the people of Canada, and said he had every confidence for the future, well-being and prosperity of the country.—Reuter.

CHAOS IN EXCHANGE CIRCLES

BANKS TO DECIDE POLICY?

SILVER DOLLARS
SCARCE

In consequence of China's currency decision the exchange market in Hongkong was completely demoralised this morning. The official rate of the dollar was announced to be 1s. 8½d. (nominal), a drop of a penny on Saturday's quotation.

No rates could be quoted in the business market, as it was impossible to fix quotations in the circumstances prevailing. The Hongkong and Shanghai Bank was neither buying nor selling.

There was talk of a meeting of the foreign banks, with a view to deciding on a general policy, and in this connection it was rumoured that the banks might refrain from paying out silver dollars beyond a certain small limit. This was later denied.

This morning, money-changers were disinclined to pay out silver dollars, saying they were unable to obtain any from the banks.

tain exchange rates at around Saturday's quotation for November or slightly lower, around 29-7/8 or 30.

Well informed circles express the belief that the Bank will be well able to buy and sell unlimited quantities of exchange or they would not have made the announcement.

There is also a widespread belief that sterling credit has been unofficially assured, and also possibly American assistance.

Gold bar brokers anticipate the opening to be around $1,152.—United Press.

ANGLO-CHINESE AGREEMENT?

JAPANESE SUSPECT FINANCIAL ACCORD

BRITISH PRESS PAYS TRIBUTE TO NANKING

Shanghai, Nov. 4.
Regulations issued by the British Ambassador under a China Order-in-Council prohibits British subjects "making payments in silver of the whole or any debt or other obligation" in contravention of the Chinese Government's new monetary decree.

Offenders, it is ruled, shall be liable to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for a period not exceeding three months, or a fine not exceeding £50, or both.—Reuter.

NO NEW CREDITS FOR CHINA

Shanghai, Nov. 4.
The Manager of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation denied reports that new credits had been extended to China.

Nevertheless, the unofficial Japanese view is that the new currency regulations are highly suspicious. Many believe they indicate a new Anglo-Chinese financial understanding.—United Press.

LONDON'S TRIBUTE

China's currency reforms are given prominence in the press. The Financial Times pays a tribute to the Chinese Government's good judgment in deciding to conform in all respects with the best western practice.

It says the success of the scheme will depend upon the quality and consistency of the men who must administer it, but there is no reason to doubt that China will find men to operate the new measures so as to command confidence and open a new era of financial settlement in China.

The paper concludes that the whole-hearted endorsement and co-operation of Britain and other countries is assured.

BETTER PROSPECTS

The Daily Telegraph says the resolute and comprehensive measures of financial reform are certain to meet with the approval of all commercial circles trading with China, opening up as they do great prospects for Chinese commerce.

The Morning Post says that in effect the Chinese Government proposes that China shall go off the silver standard. The decision is as the crisis demands.

The paper presumes the design is to hold the Chinese dollar in its present relation to sterling, but upon what reserves and resources the paper money will rest and how the Chinese people will react are questions which cannot be calculated.

England will watch the great experiment with sympathy and hope for its success.—Reuter.

NO COMMENT

Tokyo, Nov. 4.
The Foreign Office is at present not commenting on the Chinese announcement that the Nanking Government's negotiations with Sir Frederick Leith-Ross have resulted in a loan of $10,000,000, to be used for the nationalisation of silver.

A spokesman said the report was a complete surprise, adding that despatches received on the subject indicated that the Chinese dollar would be stabilised in relation to the pound sterling, which would tend to equalise Chinese and Japanese currencies internationally.

Stabilisation everywhere was desirable, said the spokesman, but personally he believed that it would be exceedingly difficult in China, because Nanking controls "only a few provinces."

10,000 MILES TO GO TO GAOL

ENGLISH WOMAN'S LAST VOYAGE

A WOMAN who has travelled 10,000 miles to begin a sentence of life imprisonment has reached England.

She is Mrs. Katherine Hadley, sentenced to death at Shanghai in 1933 for the murder of Captain Walter Clifford Youngs, former British mercantile marine officer.

Mrs. Hadley was recommended to mercy, and was granted a reprieve on December 12, 1933.

The sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life.

She travelled in the P. and O. liner Naldera, and was in charge of two police officers and a nurse.

On arrival in London she was taken to Holloway prison, where she began her imprisonment in England.

It is only on rare occasions that a prisoner is removed from an overseas territory to this country.

"These transfers are made under the Colonial Prisoners Removal Act of 1884," an official said.

"They involve the issuing of a warrant by the Home Secretary, and the question of removal is usually raised by the Governor of the Colony concerned."

Mrs. Hadley is a Lithuanian by birth, and about 36 years of age. She married an Englishman who committed suicide in 1919, when she was just 20 years old.

She was tried before the British Supreme Court at Shanghai, and displayed no sign of emotion when sentence of death was passed upon her.

A neighbour, at the trial, described how he watched through a window and saw Mrs. Hadley stab Captain Youngs.

Mrs. Katherine Hadley escorted by a wardress on her arrival at Tilbury from Shanghai. She travelled 10,000 miles to begin a sentence of life imprisonment in England. In 1933 she was sentenced to death at Shanghai for the murder of Captain Walter Clifford Youngs, a former British mercantile marine officer. A recommendation to mercy accompanied the sentence, which was afterwards commuted to penal servitude for life.

Six Stars Captured For British Films

Stuart Robertson and John Gielgud in New Productions

SIX new stars have been found for British films. Three are coming from Hollywood and three have been found in London. They are:

John Gielgud, Stuart Robertson, Jean Muir, Oscar Homolka, Peter Lorre, and Robert Young.

John Gielgud, who is one of the finest character actors on the London stage, and who has refused more film offers, from Hollywood than any other actor in the past year, has agreed to play the part of Somerset Maugham's famous character, Ashenden, in a film to be called "The Secret Agent."

He appeared in the stage and film versions of "The Good Companions," and is the brother of Mr. Val Gielgud, the B.B.C. drama director.

The American film star, Robert Young, who played in "The House of Rothschild," and the German film star, Peter Lorre, who played the villain in "M" and "The Man Who Knew Too Much," are both being brought from Hollywood for "The Secret Agent," in which the heroine will be Madeline Carroll. It will be directed by Alfred Hitchcock for Gaumont-British.

Jean Muir, who played Helena in the film of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," will star in a musical film, to be directed by Paul Stein, of "Blossom Time," for Warner's at Teddington, Middlesex. She is a Scots girl at present in Hollywood.

Stuart Robertson, the Scottish singer, brother of Anna Neagle, the film star, has been placed under exclusive contract by British and Dominions and will first be starred in a sea story in which he will sing shanties. He has frequently broadcast and has sung at Queen's Hall.

Oscar Homolka, who is now playing in "Close Quarters" at the

—Restores Health Naturally

No longer need you fear that something terrible is wrong when your child is fretful, listless, or won't eat. Simply do this at once: Give your baby a little Castoria and see how quickly improvement comes. Authorities have found that intestinal absorption may be poisoning the system even when the child's habits may seem regular. The stomach is upset. Digestion is impaired. Nerves lose their delicate balance. Nothing corrects this distressing condition quite as naturally and safely as Castoria. Swiftly it cleanses the system, settles the stomach, improves digestion and restores nerve-poise. Then Nature does the rest as only Nature can. Appetite for food returns. Health is again normal. As a result baby gains weight fast. Now don't worry, mother. At the first warning that all is not well give your child a little Castoria. Results will surprise you.

H. K. A "CHATTEL"?

UNIQUE
OVER TO LEAGUE

MR. MALCOLM MacDONALD, Secretary for the Colonies, deprecated in strong terms the suggestion that Hongkong and other Colonies should be handed over to the League of Nations as Mandates, when he spoke at a luncheon of the West African Dinner Club last month in honour of Sir Bernard Bourdillon, Governor-designate of Nigeria.

"A certain eminent person, at one of the recent Party conferences," he remarked, "said that, in his view, all the Crown Colonies should be handed over to the League of Nations as Mandates."

"It is not merely the economic development that is prejudiced, but also the political and educational development of the peoples there, and the expansion of medical and other social services, for all these services are expensive, and must be founded on a basis of material prosperity."

Content To Stay

"To talk of the Crown Colonies being handed over wholesale as Mandates to the League," the Colonial Secretary continued, "is to presume that the peoples of the Colonies can be treated as mere chattels, that we need not consult their own wishes."

"But we are bound to consult their wishes, and I have no doubt that, if we were to do so, we should find the vast majority of them content and anxious to stay in their present situation."

"To say that implies no criticism of the Mandate System. In fact, the sentiment of the people in the Colonies is due to our having for a long time past in our Colonial Government practised the very principles laid down by the League of Nations for the government of Mandated territories."

The trip is designed in part to furnish "background" for Ward, who has ambitions to be an author.

Filming A Battle With Microbes As Rival Armies

Paris, Oct. 20.

Films that might be announced in the most startling terms on the hoardings are described by Paris-Soir.

"Five million actors. Three hundred stars. The most remarkable reconstruction of a great battle ever seen on the screen. Real fighting, with blood and victims," are only some of the claims for them that might be made.

The warriors are red and white blood corpuscles, and the battles are fought against microbes.

The films are staged by Dr. Comandon in a laboratory at the house at Garches where Pasteur died. The "stars" often have to undergo a certain make-up to make them catch the camera.

"And although I sign no princely contracts, my stars are dear, very dear," Dr. Comandon explained, bringing his different cultures within the glare of the spotlight.

25 Years' Work

And then he shot a film. Bacilli of foot-and-mouth disease prepared an underhand attack on innocent red globules and an army of white globules.

As in every good film, the forces of law and order triumphed, the bacilli bent a retreat, and the white globules, advancing in serried lines, surrounded them, and finally dealt the deathblow. It has taken Dr. Comandon 25 years to bring his work to such perfection.

The "field of battle" in the film was only half a cubic millimetre of blood, which had to be enlarged ten thousand times.

Dr. Comandon is now undertaking a series of studies on the evolution of cancerous cells, which are so remarkable that Dr. Carrel has asked him to go to New York to collaborate with him at the Rockefeller Institute.—Reuter.

WHAT IS AN ELEPHANT'S
MAN-POWER?

An elephant can, if it tries, spring more than a little surprise. It can shift trees, and lift trees. Or chase you and place you right up in the air by its eyes. Miss Hanna, a Siamese elephant now in Japan, has been doing her best to vindicate this English nursery rhyme; but English experts complain that her best is not as good as it should be.

In a recent "tug-of-war" in the Tokyo Zoo, she was able to hold her own with only 55 men, and that by collapsing on her knees. From inquiries, it appears that while it is not good for an elephant to indulge in such direct trials of strength, a higher standard would be expected of any large, full-grown elephant.

An official of the London Zoo thought that 55 men was not many—but added that the history of the Zoo threw no direct light on what might be expected of an elephant in this way.

Mr. Berttram Mills. Mr. Berttram Mills thought that Miss Hanna did not look a very big elephant. From her photograph, he stated, he would guess that she was about 22-25 years old and only about three years grown.

"I have seen elephants," he added, "that 100 men could not hold; and once a big elephant gets going I doubt if 500 men could stop her. Obviously it depends a great deal on both the size of the elephant and how the pull started. An elephant may weigh anything from one to five tons, and a tug-of-war is, after all, very largely a matter of weight against weight."

Mr. Mills also considered that he would like to be assured that the proper "tug-of-war" rules, as followed at the Military Tournament at Olympia, had been obeyed before any precise value was attached to such a performance.

Mr. George Sanger, also of circus fame, added the view that a big elephant ought to be able to pull 100 men with ease.

Tientsin, Nov. 1.

The movement for an autonomous North China government is being hampered by lack of a Chinese leader with enough ability and prestige to hold the many conflicting elements together without plunging five northern provinces into a maelstrom of civil war and unrest.

Japanese take it for granted that the Big Five Chinese generals in North China will join the revolt against Nanking but they also know that the Big Five—Yen Hsi-shan, Sung Chieh-yuan, Fu Tso-yi, Chin Teh-chun and Shang Chen—could never work harmoniously together and that it is imperative to have some "strong man", more than a mere figurehead, to keep them from tearing at each other's throats once they are free from Nanking's nominal control.

In this group are two leaders stronger than the others, General Yen Hsi-shan, Pacification Commander of Shansi Province, who controls Fu Tso-yi, governor of Suiyuan Province; and General Sung Chieh-yuan, who controls Chin Teh-chun, governor of Chahar. General Shang Chen, governor of Hopei, is something of a weak sister. General Han Fu-chu, governor of Shantung, is a powerful leader, but is something of a question mark to the Japanese as he is satisfied with Nanking as long as Nanking leaves him alone. The Japanese nevertheless figure that Shantung will be with Chahar, Hopei, Shansi and Suiyuan provinces when the break comes against Nanking.

Not Committed

According to one member of the old Chihli Clique which ruled North China before Chiang Kai-shek's rise to power and glory and who claims to have been present when these matters were discussed between Japanese and Chinese leaders, nothing has been yet definitely decided.

The Japanese have not yet committed themselves to the North China separatist movement and will be content with Nanking's nominal control if Nanking grants Japan's wishes, which are virtual demands.

These include Japanese exploitation of mines and communications, purchase of property, reduction of tariffs on Japanese imports, recognition of Manchukuo and Japanese aid in fighting Communists on the frontiers.

If these demands are not granted, then Japan will not only support but foster independence in North China and see that the new government will have what the Japanese love to call "sincerity" in their attitude of friendship towards Japan.

Japanese are not unanimous in their views on the issue, and there is some bickering and dispute among their own ranks. One group believes Japan can obtain what she wants eventually, without riding a tiger. Another group, which seems to be in the majority, demands action and a new state. Older and wiser heads counsel patience until all preliminary problems to the establishment of a new state, can be worked out.

This informant said his observations of the trend and the present status of affairs leads him to the conclusion that it is only a matter of time until independence is declared and achieved.—United Press.

Munich, Oct. 20.

The Englishman, the Australian and the German stand at the bottom of the class when it comes to drinking alcohol, according to Nazi statistics.

The list shows that the Frenchman and the Swede drink, on the average, five times more every year than any one of them.

Here are the figures per head per year in litres (about 1½ pints):

France and Switzerland . . . 5
Spain, Sweden, Czechoslovakia . . . 4
Hungary and Austria . . . 3½
Belgium, Bulgaria, Holland . . 3
England, Australia, Germany . 1

When it comes to wine drinking, France is again in the lead with an average yearly consumption per head of 100 litres.

As for beer, Germany has to take second place to Belgium where an average of over 100 litres is absorbed.—Reuter.

were 30.00, Sterling 1/2-5/8, and Gold Bars $1,148.50.—United Press.

MONEY-CHANGERS CAUTIOUS

Armed with several ten dollar notes, a representative of the Hongkong Telegraph this morning made the round of the local money-changing establishments in an endeavour to obtain silver coins.

At only one place was he successful. One money-changer consented to give $9.85 for a ten dollar note.

Another consented to change a five-dollar note, but gave only ten-cent coins. Others stated that they had no silver.

This is the culmination of a remarkable week-end. Early on Saturday morning, when the dollar stood at 1s. 9 1/2 d. a rush set in, and practically every money-changer in town was denuded of silver $1 coins.

PARITY RATE

Because of the heavy drop in Hongkong's exchange during the past week, without a corresponding drop in the price of silver, Hongkong $1 coins now have a silver content greatly in excess of the exchange value.

On its silver content the Hongkong dollar is actually worth 2s. 0 1/2 d. when sold as silver.

Sold for what it is—a silver dollar—it was worth only 1s. 6 1/2 d. when this morning's exchange rate was posted, with the business rate as low as 1s. 6 1/2 d.

From reliable sources it is learned that silver bullion and coins to the value of $16,000,000 were shipped from Hongkong by foreign banks on Saturday, this large consignment going by the P. & O. liner Chitral. Interviewed this morning, officials of leading banks, whilst confirming the fact that the shipment had been made, refused to divulge the quantity shipped from each bank, or the ratio of silver bullion and coins shipped from the Colony.

present not informed of the details of the reported Leith-Ross agreement.—United Press.

MOVE TOWARDS SOLIDITY

The Times says the scheme will be universally welcomed and if faithfully carried out will provide a basis for putting China's finance in a permanently sound condition.

The News Chronicle asks whether China is strong enough to carry through this monetary policy which many believe to be beyond the powers of western countries.

The Daily Mail declares the Chinese Government's announcement will be widely welcomed in the City. The scheme is drawn up along the most constructive modern lines and will undoubtedly meet the requirements of the Chinese financial position. It may well prove of inestimable value to the Chinese people and help to bring them fresh prosperity by facilitating trade.

TEST OF STRENGTH

The Financial News says that well-informed quarters in London take the announcement with regard to the stabilisation of the Chinese dollar to mean that the authorities will endeavour to keep the currency steady in relation with sterling. It remains to be seen whether the Chinese Government will be able to compel the surrender of privately owned silver stocks.

Its ability to collect a large amount of silver will determine whether the Government is able to maintain exchange at its present level. It is felt there is a fair chance for the reform to succeed.

This paper mentions in passing, that the American silver policy may be modified.—Ruter.

SANITARY BOARD

ADDITION PROPOSED TO MARKET BY-LAWS

At to-morrow's meeting of the Sanitary Board, the President, pursuant to notice, will move:

"That the following addition be made to the Market By-laws—28. No flesh of any animal slaughtered in the Government slaughter-house at Sai Wan Ho shall be exposed for sale in any market in the Colony other than the markets at Quarry Bay, Sai Wan Ho and Shaukiwan and no flesh of any animal slaughtered in the Government Slaughter-house at Aberdeen shall be exposed for sale in any market in the Colony other than the market at Aberdeen. This by-law shall come into operation on the 1st January, 1936."

Other business will include:—A letter from the Hon. Mr. M. K. Lo regarding that no further motion is necessary to include within his motion dated 22nd October, 1935 the other areas affected; Application for an eating house licence at No. 105, Chun Young Street, ground floor; Application for an offensive trade licence to formal comment, members of the Government indicated that they regarded China's new currency measures as timely, designed simultaneously to strengthen the Central Government and to stabilise currency against fluctuations which have tormented banks and commercial men for many months.

Numerous experts regard the step as a resourceful measure of a kind which it has long been recognised China needs, in face of the failure of international monetary powers to concur in methods to remedy China's monetary troubles. Official sources said the United States Treasury was not involved in the step and as far as is known other Governments are not involved, although unofficial experts believe the British economist, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, was probably consulted before this latest step was taken by Nanking.

The nationalisation order is regarded as a gigantic measure, the full success of which is dependent upon the methods the Government employs in execution. Absence of details causes experts to reserve judgment.

STRENGTHENING NANKING

It is widely felt, however, that unification of the note issue will greatly strengthen the Central Government. It is believed that public faith in the note issue will be strengthened as a result of the combining of the resources of the banks.

It is felt that the recent success of the Central Government in distributing notes in the interior of China has encouraged this new step.

The consolidation of power to buy or sell exchange is regarded as conducive to stabilisation of the yuan which the Government and a widespread section of the business world desired.

Experts suggest that the chief problem in the programme will be the maintenance of a high silver coverage for the note issue, but as coverage to date has been higher than many nations' it is believed the Government can continue to maintain it by a judicious exercise of authority.—United Press.

THE NEW STUDEBAKER "DICTATOR" SALOON

"Expressions by a Noted Authority in all matters pertaining to motoring"

Sir Malcolm Campbell's opinion of the 1935 MIRACLE RIDE STUDEBAKER given in his article which appeared recently in "The Field" concludes with—

"Altogether, I consider the New Studebaker a very good car indeed. Quiet at all speeds, very smooth and easy to handle, quite fast on the level—70 m.p.h. is well within its compass—good on hills and with excellent acceleration on all gears. It impresses me as being excellent value in the £300—£350 class.
It is a car that I think will appeal to a very wide section of British motorists."

A SIDELIGHT ON RESTRICTION

Owing to the agricultural depression in most countries to-day, sums equivalent to many millions of pounds are being paid in bonuses, subsidies and other forms of assistance to agriculture. This point was stressed by Mr. Stanley Bruce, High Commissioner for Australia, in the course of a discussion at the League of Nations Assembly some few weeks ago, when he asked whether it would not be possible that these millions might be better employed in bringing about a greater consumption of products of the land, thereby improving the physical health of the people and the economic wealth of nations. The discussion was on the allied problems of agricultural depression and under-nourishment of the people. It was stated, during the debate, that evidence existed to show that by the increased consumption of certain foods, great improvement in national health and efficiency could be achieved, and in this connection the point is made that in the less developed countries the great masses are living on a bare subsistence level. Even in the most advanced nations, there is a stratum of people unable to obtain adequate nourishment. Sir John Orr, Director of the Rowatt Institute, touching on this point, claims that no fewer than twenty millions of the British population are living on a diet which is deficient in food value, and it is pertinent in this connection to bear in mind that the State is involved in heavy expenditure in the treatment of disease, including that due to bad feeding. Cheap food of the right kinds would undoubtedly enable a lower expenditure on the nation's health services. Lord de la Warr, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Agriculture, has expressed doubts as to the wisdom of the policy of restriction. Speaking of restriction of imports by tariffs and quotas as a solution of the agricultural problems, he pertinently asks whether these measures have not had the result of decreasing the consumption of food, to the loss not only of the consumer but of the farmer as well. Both on health grounds and on economic grounds, he says, limitation of

FILM FANDOM GROWS UP

A great concession has just been made to the film-going public by one of Hollywood's leading personalities. He admits that they may now be said to have grown up. Therefore it has been decided by the intellectuals who cater for so much of the leisure of the British people that films in the future shall be more sophisticated. There will be less labouring of the obvious; audiences will be given credit for a little intelligence, and not treated as a solid mass of low-brows and nitwits. They will even be encouraged to use their imaginations a little more. Many incidentals of the films that used to be deemed essential to their comprehension by the groundlings will now be left out as superfluous. Thanks, apparently to the sedulous tuition of Hollywood, audiences have become quicker in the uptake. All this is very comforting, even complimentary. The torch of intellect lit in California has at last penetrated the primeval gloom of the British jungle. But, after all, was it not the Hollywood magnates who themselves had become the slaves of mental obsolescence, blindly following certain conventional lines of campaign while all the time their millions of patrons were wondering when it would dawn on them that the time had come for a change of method? The success of various British films in which the points are not heavily underlined and the audience is given credit for perception certainly supports the theory. The film director quoted above admits proudly that he has not had a holiday for seven years. Now, if he and his kind would shake off the slavery of the machine more frequently, and form new "contacts," with a view to ascertaining what ordinary people think of their efforts, the long overdue improvement in the generality of American films might at last get under weigh. It is much better to overrate than to underrate the intelligence of one's audience. Hollywood's policy of "safety first" should have been down for revision long ago.

A VICEROY'S WISE ADVICE

The system of democratic government about to be introduced into India has found a sensible advocate in Lord Willingdon, the British Viceroy in that country. Lord Willingdon has been pointing out that only by working the reforms can Indians establish a successful claim to their extension. Referring in the legislative Assembly at Simla to recent Hindu-Muslim disturbances of the public peace, Lord Willingdon said: "No system of parliamentary government can be expected to work successfully and for the benefit of the people as a whole without the existence of a spirit of accommodation and willingness on the part of all sections to prefer the wider interests of the entire body politic to the narrower ones of their own particular group. The advice is well-timed. The existing Indian legislature has just refused to pass an emergency bill giving to the new administration special powers for maintaining order in such circumstances as those which the Hindu-Muslim riots created. These powers, therefore, have had to be introduced by British authority. It would be premature to draw any conclusions adverse to the new system from the incident that has occurred. It is nevertheless well that the implications of such a happening should be recognised at an early stage. It will be by governing itself in smaller affairs that India will establish its claim to control of those greater.

supply, if carried too far, must result in general impoverishment. The statements quoted, which could be supplemented by others of a like character, serve to show a danger which is apt to be overlooked when applying measures in the hope of bettering the agricultural industry. What is more, they point to the need of a real national food policy being devised and put into operation.

WAR OF HAND AGAINST MACHINE

THE position of the Italian army of East Africa is analogous to that of our own country when operating in South Africa in the Boer War. The Italian plan is based on a short campaign ending before the next rains begin.

Supplies have been accumulated in the two Italian East African colonies sufficient to make the force at least semi-independent over a period of any large shipments through the Suez Canal. The strategy of the campaign evolves from this condition. Decisive results must be obtained within a time limit whose ultimate end is the fall of the rains in the early part of 1936.

It is idle to assume any close knowledge of the plans framed by the Italian Commander-in-Chief, a most able strategist with a tactical reputation still to make. But his intentions are revealed by progressive action, and the little we have seen to date indicates a broad outline.

Briefly, the assumption is that his main attack is in the north from Eritrea, with a holding movement in the south Italian Somaliland.

The slower movement in the south has the effect of tying down a large part of the Abyssinian army against the threat from that quarter and keeping it well away from the chance of any quick junction to aid the defence in the north when heavily pressed.

There are alternative uses for the force in the south. If the northern advance on Addis Ababa is held up in mountainous country, the southern force would press forward to afford relief by a new thrust towards the capital.

THERE is one other condition in the strategical field. The Italian army is divided into halves by the neutral territories of British and French Somaliland, and as a whole has no centre. Assuming that the large force of, perhaps, 180,000, is in the north an objective for it will be to send a flank force towards the railway line and form a centre which would connect with troops sent from the south, and so make a link-up. Troops of this northern flank force are already moving through Aussa along the French frontier.

The southern connecting link, moving near the British border, has not been reported, but this is natural, as the distance is greater and movement slower and determined by the advance of the southern force as a protection.

The formation of a central force may, therefore, be expected to come from the north at first, and the force may get astride the railway line which connects Addis Ababa with the French seaport of Djibouti. The railway line is important, if it can be secured undamaged, for transport for a central attack on the capital.

There is assumption in this, as the French have railway rights, and the two halves of the army might operate without a centre as independent bodies. This is unlikely, as the centre must be cleared.

The current operations in the north have taken the form of a reconnaissance in force and the sentimental capture of Adowa (which town is off the true route) to avenge the defeat sustained in 1896. For some time the Italians can make use of their mechanised equipment, but as the advance goes on into the hill region more dependence will fall to infantry afoot and mule-carried light artillery.

The work, in short, will resemble operations on the Indian North-West Frontier, which naturally will have been closely studied in relation to the phase where motor power declines in value and the queen arm of the old battles, infantry, comes into its own.

But under modern conditions the troops will be supported by heavy artillery firing from long distances, on foot, horse, back areas and covered at all times by aircraft.

NOW as to the Abyssinian defence:

The mountains are the chief ally of the 750,000 soldiers, of whom one half are in the North. They have European engineers and artillerymen who know all that the Indian hills can teach them. They have laid out defences in depth which are manned by machine-guns. Hill-posted machine-guns are a great menace, since tanks cannot get at them.

The northern area round the capital is reported to be filled with the pick of the Abyssinian infantry armed with modern rifles, which are limited in number, as also must the ammunition be. But the individual Abyssinian is a first-class marksman who does not waste ammunition, using one round on a certain mark always.

When Abyssinia is drawn from her prepared defences, the issue of prolonged resistance will depend on the correct use of these marksmen. If, because of the loss of prestige by retreat, it is decided to use men in masses, then the Italian task will be the more easy, with big targets for their modern weapons.

If, on the other hand, guerilla warfare is adopted, the rains might intervene before the conquest of the country, as distinct from mere occupation, could be made.

Guerilla warfare is, I know, second nature to the Ethiopian, and he will want it, raiding the columns and communications like a modern De Wet. I recall my own treks after the latter gentleman.

On balance it may be anticipated that, if the Abyssinians do not fight in mass but preserve their men and ammunition, the Italians may not have completed their task within the period of the dry season.

Moreover, guerilla tactics are best in the absence of modern artillery, the few modern Abyssinian guns being light ones and anti-aircraft weapons.

One may anticipate a guerilla policy being adopted after some single defeat in mass. Reasons for adopting it are prolonged residence, giving the Italians the maximum of difficulties; the avoidance of presenting targets for aerial bombing; and the chance of using the Abyssinian horsemen.

An indication of policy is to be found in the fact that the Abyssinians have formed a large cavalry force, estimated at 70,000 men. They are natural horsemen, can live on the country, and are riflemen as well as swordsmen. Part of the force is camelry carrying rifle and lance (native spear).

A force of this size could carry a raiding campaign in aid of scattered infantry groups for a long time and make the Italian lines of communication difficult to hold. Such a force would raid for ammunition and rifles and supplies.

Split up between bodies not too big, these attacks could never be localised and there would always be the chance of a massed charge at formed bodies on the move.

ONE word about water.

The Abyssinians have the lakes and the wells behind them. They can live on one-half of the food needed for a European and need no shelter. They can cover heavy artillery firing from long distances, on foot, horse, back areas and covered at all times by aircraft. As warriors they combine the adaptability of the Boer with the cunning of the Afriidi.

How long will it take the Italians to over-run the country and establish control?

It took Britain 14 years to recover and administer the Sudan. The Italian view is a short campaign and a period of four years' occupation to set up an effective administration. The calculation is optimistic.

NOTES & COMMENTS

More Scraps From Eddie Kelly's Scrapbook

THE Cockney child had just started school.
"What's yer name?" he was asked.
"Fred!"
"Blimey! That ain't a name—that's what yer mudder sews yer pants wiv!"

Isn't it So?

A Sunday school teacher yesterday asked his class to write down a definition of a heathen.
He received the following reply from one precious youngster:
"Heathens are people who don't quarrel over religion!"

Eternal Why

Why do you paint your lips with red?
Dear little girl of the curly head?
Why dab your cheeks with ghastly pink?
Why smudge your eyelashes with ink?
And pluck your eyebrows to extinction?
And achieve feminine distinction
By going platinum? Why ape
A futuristic nude in shape?
Why flatten, curve? Why dress like dozzens
Of sisters, mothers, aunts, and cousins?
Why! Why! Why! Why! When
you possess
Unornamented loveliness!

Judas

On the exterior of the cathedral at Aksum, the Holy City of Ethiopia, are frescoes, one depicting the Last Supper. Twelve of the thirteen characters in this representation are black. The white man is Judas Iscariot.

Howler

A teacher came across the following while marking some recent class papers:
"Gas in its free state refers to that found in Ireland."

Accident

A man entered the out-patients' department of the Kowloon hospital. His head was enveloped in bandages. "Are you married?" asked Doc Smalley.
"No," replied the man, "I've been run over."

Bad Bet

Little Tommy came home from Sunday school yesterday with the distressing news that he had lost the penny given him for the collection. "But that is three Sundays running that you have lost your penny," his mother complained.
"Well, I must win sooner or later," Tommy replied. "Fred's luck can't last for ever."

More Howlers

Here is a selection of "howlers" from the collection of a Lanarkshire teacher:
The Royal Mint is what the King puts on his coat of arms.
A coroner's duty is to decide whether a man died a natural or fatal death.
An appendix is a portion of a book which nobody has yet discovered to be of any use.
The cobra is a little donkey that runs about the Himalayas.
Gravity was discovered by Isaac Newton. It is chiefly noticeable in autumn, when the apples are falling from the trees.

SOUTH CHINA MASTERS OF THRILLING GAME

NAVY'S FIRST REVERSE

HUGE GATE AT GAME OF THE SEASON

(By "Sagax")

Soundly thrashed by the South China Athletic Club XI to the tune of 6-1, the Navy team had at least the satisfaction of a good game and the knowledge that they had lost their hitherto unsullied League record to one of the best combinations that has delighted fans for several seasons.

With the pick of their best men newly returned from the National Games at Shanghai, South China fielded a substantial nucleus of the future Olympic football team headed by Lee Wai-tong and a capacity crowd turned up at Causeway Bay to watch the match.

Shorn of all trimmings the game was South China's from the kick-off—which incidentally they also won. The Navy were beaten individually; collectively they failed to get an understanding early on and were never allowed to settle down afterwards. The halves distributed badly and when the men did get in action they indulged in short passing and immediately lost a quarter of an hour from the end for taking a kick at Tam Song Pak.

The stands were completely filled long before the start except for a sun-burned section of the cheaper seats which was fully occupied when the first whistle blew. The turf was hard and fast and conditions were excellent for fast play.

The Navy eleven was unchanged and lined up as follows: Hayman; Nicholson, Wolverson; Clarkson, Bowers, Lobb (Capt.); Dorran, Rose, Cannell, Jones, Wearmouth.

Lee Kwok-wai who was selected for left half was unable to turn out owing to an injury sustained at Shanghai and Leung Wing-chui moved over from the right half to take his position, the vacancy thus created being filled by Lau Hing-choi.

The team was: Wong Wing; Lee Tin-sung, Tam Kong-pak; Lau Hing-chui, Wong Mee-shun, Leung Wing-chui; Tso Kwai-shing, Fung King-cheong, Lee Wai-tong, Ip Pak-wah, Tay Quee-lung.

Sergt. Iley R.E., refereed the match.

DEFENCE MISTAKE
Nicholson was early called upon to clear from a movement initiated by Leung Wing-chui from which Lee Wai-tong received in front of goal. Nicholson was called up to take a free kick from 40 yards out and sent in a beautiful ball which however, ineffectually skimmed the wrong side of the cross bar. The Chinese attacked strongly after this early raid and Hayman saved a thrilling situation by pushing out a shot to the left. Wolverson secured but instead of making a big clearance he tried to pass and Leung Wing-chui sent the ball back into the danger area. Fung took possession and, with only a small target, put the ball into the net.

Series 1.

ARTS & CRAFTS DON'T MAKE FURNITURE LIKE THIS.

The ball went back into play and Lee gathered it 20 yards out on the right. He smashed in a daisy cutter at an oblique angle which Hayman could not reach and atoned for the previous mistake by increasing South China's lead to three goals.

Tso outpaced the defence with terrific sprints time and again and was a constant menace to the harried sailors. In a sustained attack he sent across a low centre which Lee could not quite reach but which only needed diverting into the net. Lee put in two more shots but the clever Hayman kept getting in the way and finally Ip banged the leather over the bar.

Nicholson and Wolverson were working like Trojans but they could not keep both wings marked and a few minutes later Lee received 20 yards out. Entirely unmarked he took his time with a fast rising shot which Hayman had no chance of reaching. Four goals to nothing!

SAILORS SCORE

Dorran beat the defence to create a promising position but could not make up his mind to shoot or pass. He compromised by putting the ball well and truly wide. The same player got his head to a nice centre but Wong was well placed to save. Ten minutes from the end Cannell was ordered from the field after an incident with Tam. The play was almost in midfield and there seemed no grounds for unpleasantness.

Lee got going at top speed and though hard pressed by Wolverson beat the back for the ball and banged it hard past Hayman for the fifth goal of the match. A period of rather desultory play followed though Hayman was frequently tested and brought off a number of workmanlike clearances. Five minutes before the final whistle Wearmouth sent in a magnificent corner which Jones headed into the net to give the sailors their only goal.

Ip almost immediately afterwards added a sixth goal for South China from an unmarked position.

DOONNA & BIG TOP

by BEULAH POWELL

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

DOONNA GABRIEL and MADELINE SIDALL who call themselves "The Gabriel Sisters" are circus performers. Years earlier Madeline ran away from her grandfather's farm.

When Donna is injured by a fall from a trapeze Madeline arranges for her to be taken to GRANDFATHER SIDALL'S farm to recuperate. To please her partner Donna pretends to be Madeline. She falls in love with BILL SIDALL, Madeline's cousin, and though she is ashamed of deceiving him and Grandfather she is afraid to tell the truth.

CON DAVID, circus animal trainer, loves Donna but when Madeline tells him that her partner is married Con, believing Donna lost to him, marries Madeline. Though terrified of the lions and tigers she takes part in his animal act.

Con sees one of Donna's letters to Madeline and discovers how she tricked him into marriage.

CHAPTER XIX

When the animals had been driven back through the covered runway and the uproar had subsided, Renfroe halted Con. "What's the idea?" he demanded. "Trying to commit suicide or pull a new act?"

"Neither." The animal trainer strode through the sawdust-covered corridor that led from the "big top" to the dressing tent, brushing aside everyone who stood in his way.

Madeline was waiting at the door of her dressing room. Under the rouge her cheeks were pale and her eyes black. "Say, what's the matter with you?" she began.

Con caught her wrist, jerked the door open with his other hand and almost flung her into the room. The two other women who shared the dressing room stared at him in amazement.

"Get out!" he told them.

Both left quickly, without a word. Occasional quarrels and even fights were to be expected between married couples and Con was notoriously temperamental. If he wanted a showdown, fight and all, it was none of their business. Madeline looked capable of taking care of herself.

Alone with Madeline, Con became deadly calm. A smile that distorted his features, robbing them of all attractiveness, spread over his face. "So Donna is to be married?" he drawled.

"Why—why, yes. I told you that a long time ago."

"Yes, you told me! You told me before she had even thought of such a thing. Let's see—how many months ago was it? Long before you trapped me—"

"Don't you say I trapped you!" Madeline rasped.

"Why not? You knew that if I hadn't thought Donna was going to marry that rube cousin of yours, I wouldn't have married you. So you lied. You told me she'd written you that they were engaged—"

"I'm talking about this," Con extracted the letter from his pocket and flung it at her. "Oh, I read it! If you can convince me that Donna Gabriel ever wrote you that she was going to be married before she had married me, I'll be the King of England! Good God, you women are more treacherous than tigers! I suppose she's marrying him now because you married me!"

Madeline burst into hysterical laughter. "Of all the conceits! Don't tell me you still believe Donna would ever have had you! She couldn't see you for dust at any time, and I knew it! Yes, I lied when I said they were going to be married. Why not? I was fool enough to think that if you knew you could never have her"

"With you?"

"Yes, with me. It's only your damned pride and conceit that's eating you now. That's all it ever was between you and Donna—and don't tell me any different. I've lived with you long enough to know you'll never love any one but yourself. The only reason you wanted Donna was because you couldn't have her. I wish to God she'd married you! I don't want you. Not any more!"

She dropped into a chair, laid her head on the shelf before the mirror and burst into angry tears.

"Take your defence Con could not combat. He paced the little room, whistled, disconsolately and then swung on his heels and left."

Madeline picked up the letter, read it through and then destroyed it. She had never spoken in the heat of passion but they had said things that were not easily forgiven. Her forgotten. With her success in the animal act, Madeline had hoped to win her husband's love. Con's fury over discovering that Donna had been at the wedding showed Madeline only too plainly that he did not love her, that he still cared for the other girl.

Con was well aware of his conceit but he did not want any one else to mention it, least of all the woman who bore his name. Madeline had added insult to injury and he could not forgive her.

Because the scene still rankled and because both were stubborn, the strained situation continued. Con in his life had admitted himself in the wrong. The overtures toward reconciliation would have to come from Madeline, and Madeline, in the throes of jealousy, convinced herself that she hated Con and did not care if he never spoke again.

Con treated Madeline with a supercilious courtesy that infuriated her and fanned to a higher flame her hatred and jealousy. Probably during those days when she completely ignored him he came nearer to loving her than at any other time. She had spoken truly when she said it was because Donna cared nothing for Con that he had been so determined to win her.

Lucy the Bengal, was the only one of his beasts Con really cared for. Lucy could not be tamed. She could be driven into the great barred ring, but no persuasion, threats or whipping could make her mount a stool, induce her to try to cheat me out of anything Grandfather might leave. "I wouldn't be too sure! I suppose you kept that letter?"

"No, I destroyed it. But just to satisfy you I'll write Donna and ask her what she intends to do if Grandfather should die."

"You think she'd tell you?"

"I know she would."

"If she does, for your own protection be sure to keep the letter." Until this conversation Madeline had given little thought to what her grandfather possessed. Now the farm and livestock and the Sidall bank account became of vast importance as she realized that Con considered her an heiress. After Madeline had written to Donna, first wishing her happiness, then tactfully inquiring what the situation would be if Grandfather Sidall should die, she began to wonder if Con were not a better judge of character than herself. Was Donna, in marrying Bill Sidall, looking forward to a future that included property and valuable assets as well as home and husband?

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

"Browns' Millions." Jack Buchanan's latest musical film, which comes to the King's Theatre on Wednesday, has well proved itself the most ambitious "musical" yet made in England. For the big scene of the film, a Corsican carnival in which more than a thousand revellers take part, the studio technicians constructed an exact replica of the market square at Ajaccio, the picturesque capital of Corsica. This huge set, comprising churches, shops, cafe and three-storied dwelling houses, covered ten acres of the B. and D. studios and occupied the attention of a host of workers for many weeks. Another sequence was filmed on the deck and bridge of a 3,500-ton luxury yacht, which the director chartered for a week's cruise in the vicinity of the Isle of Wight. A third set shows the interior of a Mayfair mansion of the grandest and most imposing kind, whilst fourth depicts the happy life of a multi-millionaire captain of industry dream about a palatial affair, all marbled, chromium plate and modernity. These are some of the fitting backgrounds for the hilarious story of the man who is obliged to spend half a million of money in six months in order to qualify for a legacy of six millions, a story which made thousands of pre-war theatre-goers laugh their heads off. Lilli Damita plays opposite Jack Buchanan, whilst the supporting cast includes Fred Emney, Sydney Fairbrother, Ian McLean, Amy Veness, Anthony Holles and Sebastian Shaw. The musical numbers are by Ray Noble and Thornton Freeland, of "Whoopee" fame, directs.

"Red Hot Tires"

Mary Astor and Lyle Talbot talked in whispers for two days as a result of over-enthusiasm. Working together in the first National picture "Red Hot Tires," coming soon to the Queen's Theatre, one of the sequences reveals the pair as excited spectators of a car and motorcycle race. They were supposed to be moved to a high pitch of excitement in watching the thrilling sport. It hadn't been planned, however, that the two would cheer so loud and long that hoarseness would result, but that's what actually happened. Both are racing enthusiasts and when they watched the daredevil race track stunts, they cheered louder and longer than was necessary for picture purposes. "Red Hot Tires" is a dynamic drama with speed thrills that will take the breath. There is a stirring and unusual romance in which two daredevil drivers battle both for racing honours and the love of a beautiful girl. In the cast besides Talbot and Miss Astor are Roscoe Karns, Frankie Darro, Gavin Gordon, Mary Treen and Henry Kolker.

"Cardinal Richelieu"

To attempt to picture the dignified George Arliss, who brings his latest historical characterisation to the screen of the King's Theatre in the title role of Darryl Zanuck's 20th Century production of "Cardinal Richelieu," blithely singing his way through a musical comedy is to tax the imagination almost beyond the bounds of reason. But the screen's most distinguished character star actually earned his living in exactly this fashion during one season early in his career. He admits that his voice was pretty dreadful and after that season he kept a promise to himself not to let it happen again. Arliss was born in London on April 10, 1888. He indulged his childhood ambition to act by putting on amateur theatricals in the basement of a small friend's home. At his father's insistence, he spent a year in his publishing house. Then he joined the old Elephant and Castle stock company, playing in blood and thunder "mollers."

Tours of the English provinces with various stock companies followed and then came the memorable singing season. He met his wife in a theatrical school and proposed to her because she had a "nice arm." After a number of appearances with Mrs. Pankhurst's London company he accompanied her stock company to America, and met with such great success that he remained there. After appearing in "The Darling of the Gods" and several plays with Mrs. Pankhurst, he was starred in "The Devil" (Septimus Trelwell) and then "Disraeli," in which he played for five years. Then came "Paganini," "Hamilton" and "The Green Goddess." He entered the then silent films at this point and made "The Devil," "The Ruling Passion," "The Green Goddess" and "Disraeli." Arliss returned to the stage and starred in "Old English" and toured the country in "The Merchant of Venice." The arrival of "talkies" induced him to return to films to remake "Disraeli" and "The Green Goddess." He has since achieved a brilliant screen career, highlights of which were "The Millionaire," "The Working Man," "Voltaire" and, since joining Zanuck and Joseph M. Schenck's 20th Century Picture Company releasing through United Artists, "The House of Rothschild," "The Last Gentleman" and the current "Cardinal Richelieu." During a trip to England in the course of which he did intensive research for "Richelieu," he made "The Iron Duke," in which he portrayed the Duke of Wellington.

"Becky Sharp"

Inaugurating what many believe to be a new era in screen entertainment, Pioneer Pictures' first full-colour feature, "Becky Sharp" is now thrilling audiences at the Queen's Theatre. Based upon William Makepeace Thackeray's famous fiction classic, "Vanity Fair" and the Langdon Mitchell stage play "Becky Sharp," it stars Miriam Hopkins. Produced entirely in the new three-component Technicolor, it promises a revolution in beauty, fidelity to life and clarity. It is the first full length dramatic motion picture of this process and may, as many predict, revolutionize the entire future course of the film industry because of its perfection is now available. Coming as a Rouben Mamoulian production,

REMARKABLE OPERATIONS PROVE SUCCESSFUL

London, Nov. 2.

Two remarkable cornea grafting operations, carried out at the Central London Ophthalmic Hospital early last month, have proved so successful that both patients, one of whom has been blind since birth, and the other for 28 years, are expected to recover their sight.

In the case of the man born blind, substitution of visual reception for sense of touch will probably take some time, but he has already been able to count his fingers and distinguish colours.—British Wireless.

AUSTRALIAN GIRLS' TOUR

PARTY LEAVES JAPAN

Yokohama, Nov. 4.—The party of thirty-four Australian girls, members of the Young Australia League who have been touring Japan, departed en route for Australia by the President Pierce to-day. During the three weeks of their visit, the party has toured the entire island, being feted and given receptions everywhere.—United Press.

The party is due in Hongkong on Armistice Day, and the local arrangements include the laying of a wreath on the Cenotaph and a dance given under the auspices of the Australian and New Zealand Association in the Rose Room of the Peninsula Hotel on Tuesday, November 12, admission to which will be by ticket.

FIGHT SEQUEL

MEN AND WOMAN CHARGED

Yip So, 34 years, Sze To Cheuk, 37, business partners, Sze To-tan, 37, Assistant Manager, Sze To Shu-yun, 25, shop assistant, and Lam Tin, 61 years, widow, appeared before Mr. Macdonald at the Central Magistracy this morning, charged with fighting in Wing Lok Street. All five defendants pleaded guilty.

Mr. C. E. Lowe appeared for the first and third defendants and said the fight was not serious and the defendants had all come to an agreement. The first defendant, said Mr. Lowe, expressed his regret for causing the police a lot of trouble, and asked his Worship to caution him.

Council. It was clear that every member had one object only in mind—to bring to an end at the earliest possible moment to the horrors of war and to help on a settlement acceptable to the three parties to the controversy, the League, Italy and Abyssinia. It was in this spirit that I had a series of very helpful talks with M. Laval and other French Ministers. It was in the same spirit that I myself had a free and frank conversation with Baron Aloisi this morning.

Time, patience and understanding would be required for reconciling the divergent interests, and when or whether the League would succeed he could not say, but they were encouraged by the work done. "As a result of the collective action of 50 nations—a remarkable event in the history of the world—the League has shown its vitality. It has given a real stimulus to peace, both by its display of collective solidarity and its determination at the same time, to encourage every honourable effort to make an end to the risks and horrors of war."—British Wireless.

Makale. It was the goal of the British in the first day's drive. The local native chieftains surrendered to the Italians and then immediately fed them.—United Press.

INVADERS WELCOMED

Amara, Nov. 3.—The main body of Birolis and Askaris, leading the advance of the Northern Army, occupied the town of Endanbanas to-day.

The place commands a fertile and well-watered series of valleys. The women welcomed the invaders and large herds of cattle were brought from concealment. The troops brought many head.

General Smolkin's Blackshirts are expected to enter Haussen tomorrow. They are at present holding a line from the Monastery do Brasion on English Street to the Monastery Ambian on the road from Adigrat to Haussen.

Children Victims Of Anarchist

MILWAUKEE BOMBERS BLOWN TO PIECES

(Special to "Telegraph")

Milwaukee, Nov. 3.—Patricia Mlynarek, eight, her brother Conrad, six, Isadore Rutkowski, 20, and an unidentified male, believed to be Isadore's brother Eugene, were killed to-day in a dynamite explosion, climaxing a series of five bomb outrages here.

Police said Isadore was the leader of an anarchist group responsible for the bombing of two banks, two police stations and the city hall in the suburb of Shorewood.

The blast which killed the two children and the two young men apparently occurred in a small garage adjoining the Mlynarek home.

The concussion broke windows several blocks away and the blast was heard eight miles distant. The bodies were blown to pieces. A man's leg was found on the telephone wires half a block away.—United Press.

Russia's Vast Gold Hoard

EVEN ARCTIC YIELDS UP WEALTH

Moscow, Nov. 3.—Last year the Russian gold output exceeded that of the United States and Canada combined.

By 1940 it will reach the record figure of $20,000,000 per annum.

Russia needs gold to purchase goods from abroad which she urgently requires to ensure success of her second five year plan. She is obtaining it by intensified research. Numerous new gold bearing reefs have been discovered in the Caucasus, Kazan and even in the Arctic, where prospecting is done on a scientific scale unheard of in other parts of the world.—Reuter Special.

NEW DEAL TO BE TESTED

MADE ISSUE AT N.Y. ELECTION

New York, Nov. 3.—The New Deal will receive its first test at the polls to-morrow. Mr. James A. Farley, the U.S. Postmaster General, has agreed to accept the Republican challenge to make to-morrow's state elections a test, as a prelude to next year's presidential elections.

New York is considered one of the key states, where the result of elections indicate "which way the wind is blowing." Said the Postmaster General: "Business is steadily improving in the United States and uncertainty as to the future is long since ended. Sales are increasing and the investment market is growing stronger daily." Mr. Farley charged the Republicans with attempting to create a period of uncertainty for next year's national elections.—United Press.

MYSTERIOUS SUBMARINES

REPORTED LURKING OFF GALAPAGOS

Tokyo, Nov. 4.—The Foreign Office has been informed by diplomats that the United Press carries a report from Bogota, Colombia, dated Guayaquil, October 31, to the effect that mysterious submarines, and also another warship, have appeared off Galapagos, and that there is some suspicion that the vessels are Japanese.

The Foreign Office report does not say whether the United Press carried the report on its own responsibility, or merely quoted Bogota and Guayaquil newspapers.—United Press.

BERENGARIA-TO BE RETIRED

London, Nov. 3.—The Cunard-White Star Line announces that the 52,100-ton Atlantic liner Berengaria, formerly the Hamburg-American liner, Imperator, will be retired from service when the Queen Mary begins her sailings on May 27 next.—British Wireless.

WOMEN WITH OPIUM

AGED WIDOW GETS SENTENCE

Two Chinese women were brought before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, charged with possession of opium. Both pleaded guilty and were heavily fined.

Pleading guilty to the possession of 6½ taels of raw opium at No. 95 Prince Edward Road, ground floor, yesterday, Wong Kam, aged 74, widow, was fined $150, or, in default, six weeks' hard labour.

Revenue Officer A. W. Grimmit stated that a raid was carried out on the address and defendant was found in front. A Chinese officer was left to watch, while Revenue Officer Grimmit went to search the back cubicle. Whilst doing so, Revenue Officer Grimmit heard the Chinese officer shout that the old lady had watched a parcel from some firewood and thrown it away.

The prosecution stated that in view of the old lady's age, they were not pressing the case.

His Worship replied that he could not let her get away with the offence, or it would be found that old women would always be used as carriers.

A 20-year-old unmarried woman, Chung Wai-ying, was charged with the possession of 26 taels of raw opium and a fine of $780, with the alternative of four months' hard labour, was imposed.

Revenue Officer Grimmit stated that a raid was carried out on the premises of No. 28 Nullah Road, ground floor, and the opium was found in a black box which was kept in the cockpit. The police were informed that the box belonged to two young girls, and they were taken to Fa Yuen Street and defendant and a 14-year-old girl were pointed out as being the owners. The defendant stated that the opium had been given to her to carry by a man named Wong Kip.

HOME MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

LABOUR LOSES SEATS

London, Nov. 3.—Labour suffered a net loss of 27 seats in the Municipal elections in 260 towns, cities and boroughs.

Conservatives gained 56 seats and lost 22. Liberals gained 12 and lost 14. Labour gained 39 and lost 66.

Mr. Herbert Morrison remarked that the result was unexpected. This he did not think is any indication of what will happen at the General Election. On the other hand, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald welcomed the result as a definite election pointer.—Reuter.

The rainfall registered at the Hongkong Botanic Gardens during October amounted to 5.45 inches, fairly evenly distributed throughout the month.
